Thirty Per Cent To Continue Studies in Colleges and Universities

Within the next two weeks the usual round of examinations, banquets, class sermon and address, terminating in the presentation of diplomas, will bring to a close 12 years of grade and high school days for approximately 239 Harding High School students.

Last year's class, the largest until that time, comprised, 202 students and it is thought that the class this year will far exceed that number.

Many To Continue

The next two weeks, however, will not see the close of school for many of the graduates, as approximately 30 per cent of the class has made known the intention of entering college in the fall, a check-up with teachers showed.

Climaxing the school activities of the next two weeks is the awarding of diplomas and graduation address at 8 o'clock Friday night, June 3, at Chau

Lucky's Life Story Told By His Mother

MRS. LINDBERGH DESCRIBES SON'S FIRST SIGHT OF DARE-DEVIL'S PLANE

This is th first of a series of copyrighted stories on the life of Capt. Charles Lindbergh as told to Miss Bonita Witt by Lindbergh's mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh.

By BONITA WITT

(Copyright, 1927, by Central Press Co.)

I

IT was in 1910 that a wide-eyed youngster, clutching at his mother's hand, watched the daredevil, Lincoln Beachey, swoop down upon six motorcycle riders about to start a race in a Washington, D. C., park, so terrifying them that they dropped their motorcycles and fled for cover.

The child who clutched his mother's hand was Charles ("Lucky") Lindbergh first man to go from New York to Paris in a non-stop flight, the idol of America today.

His mother, Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh, a gracious woman endowed with a Spartan courage that enabled her to teach her classes in chemistry at Cass High School, Detroit, on the day her son began his epochal flight, smiles as she recalls her boy's introduction to aviation.

Sees First Plane

"That was Charles' first glimpse of an airplane," she says. "Both of us were so impressed with Beachey's performance, we never forgot it."

Seated on the porch of her modest little home on the outskirts of Detroit where a concrete walled boat slip, leading to the river, runs past her door, Mrs. Lindbergh told the story of her son's career.

She smiles and laughs now as she relates the humorous aspects of his adventure. But speaking of the long hours when any moment might have brought news of a tragedy, she says, "I couldn't smile, then. On my way to school the day my boy put off, I picked up a paper carrying a statement by an army officer saying that an attempt to make the flight at that time would be suicidal. I couldn't smile after that."

A huge propellor, which Charles broke during a flight, stands in the corner of the Lindbergh porch. Relics from various planes which he has flown occupy honored places in the living room.

Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh

Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh

Born in Detroit

Charles was born in Detroit in 1902, later moving with his family to Little Falls, Minn., where much of his boyhood was passed on the family homestead two miles from the town. His father, Charles A. Lindbergh, a Republican, was prominent in Minnesota political life and served as United States representative from Minnesota from 1907 to 1917.

Thus it was in Washington, D. C., much of Lindbergh's boyhood was passed, the family living in the capital when congress was in session.

"My boy and I passed many happy hours there and we became very close to each other," Mrs. Lindbergh says. "You see, we didn't care very much for society.

Love Out-of-Doors

"People were very nice to us and we had many invitations to social affairs. Of course there were many affairs we had to attend, but most of the dinners we avoided.

"Charles and I loved the out of doors and we spent a lot of time in the parks. All the worth while things we took in, but society life didn't appeal to us. Since my husband was busy with his congressional duties, Charles and I did a great many things together."

Charles' schooling was very irregular during his early years, since the family moved to Washington from Little Falls each year when congress was in session, necessitating a change in schools for the boy. Then there were visits to relatives in Detroit and a trip to the west coast. All of which hindered his schooling. Chief of the Detroit relatives is John Lodge, a great uncle of Charles, president of the Detroit city council.

Attends 14 Schools

Charles was moved around so much, he attended 14 schools in all. In between times his mother tutored him.

PLOT REVEALED IN MYSTERIOUS PHONE MESSAGE

Plans for Escape Halted by Sheriff as They Near Consummation

CORRIDOR LOCK SAWED

All of 10 Prisoners Deny Part; Work Started on South Wall

A plot which would have enabled all of the 10 prisoners at Marion County Jail to escape was frustrated by Sheriff James A. Deal and deputies last night.

After receiving a telephone call from some unknown man informing him that saws had been smuggled to the prisoners, the sheriff and his aides went to the jail about 10:30 last night and halted the plan for escape as it was nearing consummation.

Lock Sawed

It was found that the lock on the upper corridor door had been sawed in two, giving the prisoners access to the rear of the building where they evidently expected to break an opening in the wall.

Work had already been started on the south wall of the building, where mortar had been removed from around a stone. It is thought that the prisoners had abandoned their attack on this wall after finding that the stone would be difficult to remove and had intended to transfer their operations to the rear of the building.

Deny Part in Plot

All of the prisoners denied having a part in the plot and the sheriff stated today that he has been unable thus far to ascertain the identity of the ringleaders.

The sheriff and his deputies immediately placed all of the prisoners in solitary confinement and they will be allowed to see no visitors except their attorneys.

The prisoners had not been kept in their cells as the corridor locks and gratings were regarded as sufficiently secure.

Saws Missing

None of the saws and other implements used in preparing for the jail break had been found today, Sheriff Deal stated. He said that it would be an easy matter for the prisoners to hide the saws and that there is a possibility that all of the tools may have been dropped through an opening into the jail dungeon, located in the basement.

The sheriff is of the opinion that the escape would have been staged during the night. Mike Dye, 27, Detroit negro bandit who was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary following his trial in common pleas court yesterday, is believed to have been a leader in the plot and this provides basis for the supposition that last night was the time set for the dash for liberty.

Taken to Penitentiary

Dye was taken to the penitentiary today by Sheriff Deal, who was accompanied by a special deputy. In sentencing Dye yesterday, Judge Scofield designated him as a "bad man," and authorized a special guard to accompany the sheriff. Dye was convicted of shooting with intent to kill in connection with an attempted hold-up of M. L. Goetting, Locust grocer.

Sawing of the lock on the upper middle corridor of the jail would have enabled the prisoners to attack the rear wall at a point where the noise of their operations could not have been heard by the sheriff and others in the residence section of the jail building. After removing one of the stones from the inner wall, which are about two feet square, the outer brick wall could have been [illegible]

STATE HEALTH BOARD APPROVES PLANT PLANS

Whysall Expects Water Softener To Be Ready for Operation Oct. 1

Plans for Marion's $150,000 water softening plant, to be installed by the Marion Water Co., were approved yesterday by the state board of health, formal notice of the action having been received at the company's office today.

Work on the softening plant is now under way and George H. Whysall, general manager of the water company, stated today that he expects it to be ready for operation on or before Oct. 1.

When completed, the new plant will soften the city's water supply to a degree almost equal to rain water, it is stated.

The softening system is being installed in accordance with provisions of the new franchise granted the water company about a year ago. When it begins operating the company will be entitled to a slight increase in rates under the franchise terms.

The softening plant is one of a number of important alterations and improvements in the water system required by the franchise. Several months ago the company completed construction of a new main pipe line from the city to its plant, greatly increasing the city's water supply and assuring more dependable fire protection.

RUSSIA OUTSIDE PALE AS RESULT OF BREAK

United States Likely To Benefit If Soviet Refuses To Trade with England

Washington, May 25—Great Britain's break with Russia is regarded by Washington officialdom as one of the most important international developments since the war.

As viewed here, the British action placed Russia outside the pale of free world intercourse, and relegates her once more to the "moral isolation" which was her's in the years immediately following 1917. The United States has steadfastly refused to recognize or have any official dealings with Moscow. Great Britain tried it and is now regretting it.

President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg consider the British decision as justification of the American policy of non-recognition. Beyond that there is little comment here, but officials are watching the situation closely.

U. S. To Benefit

There is, however, little doubt but that Britain's action was not so much upon "Soviet propaganda" in the British Isles as it was to the Soviet's anti-British activities in the far east, particularly in China. The Russian activities in England merely afforded the excuse, it is believed here. China and the Far East is a sensitive spot for British trade, and it is there that the Russian activities hurt Britain most.

The United States probably will benefit indirectly from the Anglo-Soviet break, for if Moscow carries out its threat to boycott British goods it means that Russia must turn to America and Germany for the manufactured goods she needs so badly. No other markets are available, generally speaking.

French Deputies Throw Dignity Out Window When They Pay Lindbergh Honor

Dignified President of Chamber Forgets "Vives" for "Hip, Hip, Hoorays"; "Lucky" One of Few Americans Ever To Address Body; Surmounts His Usual Shyness

Paris, May 25—The French Chamber of Deputies this afternoon resounded with strange sounds, as the dignified president of the chamber led members in giving a series of rousing "hip, hip, hoorays," instead of the usual "vives." The celebration was in honor of Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, who stands out today as the world's most famous aviator because of his New York-to-Paris flight.

Lindbergh stood in confusion while the dignified French deputies became decidedly undignified in their acclaim, as he was openly aghast when Ambassador Herrick introduced him as "a real ambassador from the United States—this boy."

The scene in the chamber was one of the most moving since the days of the armistice.

Stands Uneasy, Shy

Lindbergh, the boy, spoke and then stood uneasy and shy as General Girod addressed a great tribute to his feat in uniting the hearts of two nations.

Ambassador Herrick was overcome with emotion at the scene and after a brief speech he was forced to return to the embassy and leave Lindbergh to the care of others.

Speech Too Short

Surmounting his natural shyness and suppressing his dislike for public speaking, Lindbergh arose to the occasion as he arose to the difficulties of flying across the Atlantic—he spoke before the French chamber—an honor extended to but few Americans heretofore.

This lad, who a fortnight ago was unknown and who still loves the grime of the hangars and the whirring of motors tearing through space more than adulation, arose and addressed the French legislature, and did it in a manner that would have been a credit to men of greater experience in public life.

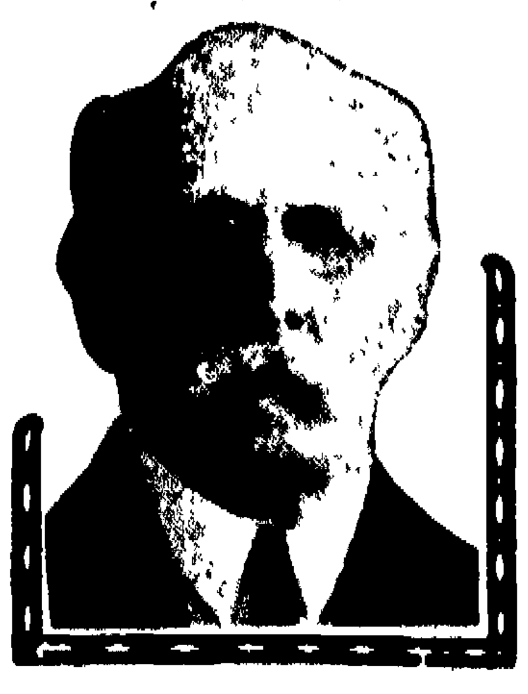
RHEUMATISM HAS VANISHED SINCE HE GOT KONJOLA

Celebrated Medicine Ended Rheumatis Suffering of 4 Years, States Marion Citizen



MR. W. E. GRUBB

Countless men and women of Marion and vicinity are turning to this remarkable new Konjola for relief in cases of stomach, liver, kidneys and bowel disorders and rheumatic troubles. This surprising remedy has brought such great results within a few short weeks that many grateful statements are already on record from the people of Marion who have been restored to health.

The latest indorsement came from Mr. W. E. Grubb, 345 Windsor Street, this city, a well-known citizen who gave his report in person to the Konjola Man at the Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, where large crowds are calling daily to find out for themselves about this celebrated compound.

"Konjola ended the rheumatism which I had been suffering over four years," said Mr. Grubb, "and I have improved in many other ways from the use of this medicine.

"My arms and back was affected with rheumatism. The joints of my elbows and shoulders were so stiff and sore that I was unable to raise my hand above my head. The muscles in my back seemed to pull and draw, causing sharp pains across my hips. When I attempted to bend over I was sure to suffer intense pains. It was impossible to sleep at nights, because these miseries stayed with me almost every hour. When I did sleep it was only in short spells.

"Well, I started taking Konjola and got relief almost at once. Then I continued with this medicine and now I can use my arms without having pains and the swelling in my elbows has gone entirely. My shoulders are not stiff and achy like they were before. I sleep good, and my appetite is better.

"Yes, my rheumatism has vanished and my health has improved in every way, so I gladly indorse this new Konjola after such results."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump Pharmacy, (Stump and Sams), 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.—Adv.

BEHIND THE SCREEN

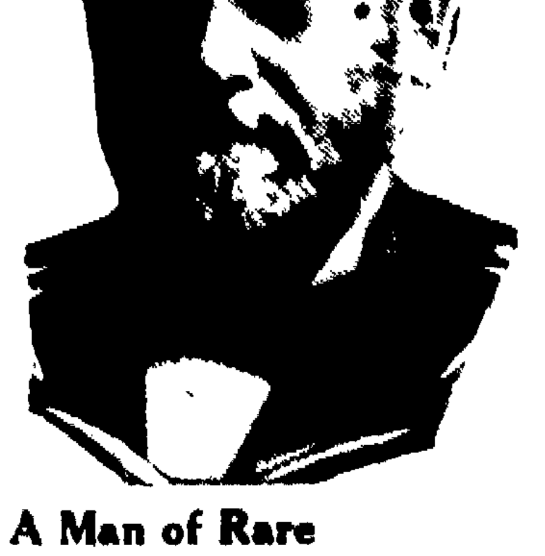
Jeanie MacPherson

WHENEVER a picture of unusual merit is released, like in the instance of "The King of Kings," much is being sung in praise of the moving picture producer. It might also be interesting, however, to hear something about the writer of the moving picture play Jeanie McPherson is the woman who wrote "The King of Kings" which is considered an outstanding example in screen writing.

Jeanie McPhrason received most of her education abroad in various countries. This gave her an intimate knowledge of people and their customs and a fine historic background which proved invaluable to her in her later work as a screen writer.

Upon her return to America, Miss MacPherson took dancing lessons, at the same time studying singing to prepare for grand opera. But her endeavor finally took her into the motion picture field, where she first appeared as an actress. It is here that she acquired all the knowledge of technique which she now is utilizing in her screen writing. Her final success however, came when Cecil B. DeMille offered her a position on his writers staff. At first she indignantly refused because of the very small salary offered, but finally took the ill paid job just to prove she could write. She slowly but steadily has developed, until today she is recognized as a leader among photo-play writers.

A Man of Rare Professional Attainment



The originator of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was the late Ray V. Pierce, M. D. At first he practised medicine in Western Pennsylvania and his unusual ability and success were soon recognized there, then he moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and established the World's Dispensary where his famous home remedies have ever since been made.

Each succeeding year the sale of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been greatly increased. Evidently people appreciate the fact that it increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, helps to enrich the blood, clears the skin of eruptions and blemishes, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young. It contains no harmful ingredient.

Ask your nearest druggist for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10 cents for a trial package of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, in Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Prohibition Questionaire of Doctors Likely to Die

Wet and Dry Problem Studiously Avoided at Medical Convention

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, May 25—As usual when wets and drys get to arguing, nobody knows who had the better of the prohibition debate at the American Medical Association convention, the biggest physicians' gathering in the country's history, which ended here a few days ago.

The m. d.'s evidently were as dentally afraid of the subject as politicians are.

They were perfectly willing to discuss everything else in public. They talked that over in whispers, behind locked doors. There weren't any leaks worth mentioning, either.

All other questions were considered in the cold light of science.

It's rumored that that one generated plenty of heat none the less, but to the fact that the medicos had to keep it bottled up.

THE best information is that the disciples of Aesculapius were split every which way, like most of the rest of us, and if prohibition came to a referendum among them, one man's guess is as good as another's as to how it would pan out.

Like the big political parties, too, the docs appeared to be afraid of a vote.

To be sure, a few medical Nicholas Murray Butlers did yell for a showdown, and managed to get before the convention a questionnaire which it was proposed to send to every doc in the United States, asking him straight out, in substance:

"Do you believe alcohol has any medicinal value?—yes or no"

HOWEVER, this proposition wasn't acted on on the convention floor. The questionnaire was referred to the trustees, to be treated as they think best whenever they get around to it.

They'll decide an operation is what that questionnaire needs.

The operation will be a success but unfortunately the patient will croak—that is to say, the questionnaire.

That's a safe bet.

Just how many wet, as compared with just how many dry, members it has plainly is one of the things the American Medical Association is particularly anxious not to find out.

PRECISELY why the association should fight so shy of the prohibition controversy isn't at all clear.

Apparently it suspects all drys will turn to osteopathy if it appears that a majority of its membership is wet and that wets will go in for faith cure if it develops that most regular medical practitioners are dry.

THE docs did, indeed, decide that congress and state legislatures have no business telling them what to prescribe or not to prescribe, or how much or little of anything to prescribe, for their patients.

Removal of legal restrictions of this sort was one of the associations's demands.

Licker was what they meant. There's no doubt about it, because the resolutions particularly referred to that part of the Volstead Act and similar state laws as "unfortunate."

I HAVE it on the best authority that this declaration was intended neither as a pro-wet expression of opinion nor as an anti-dry jab.

The docs simply mean to say that they claim the privilege of prescribing anything, from bread pills to rat poison, without consulting a human being on earth who can't write "m. d." after his name.

HOCKING VALLEY, ERIE TABLES CHANGE SUNDAY

Schedule on Arrival and Departure of Passenger Trains Altered

Changes in the time tables of the Hocking Valley and Erie railroads, to become effective Sunday, May 29, were announced today by Erie Chief Train Dispatcher J. R. Folsom, and L. B. Nebergall, ticket agent at the local Union Station.

The new schedules will change the time of four Erie and two Hocking Valley passenger trains.

Train No. 3, operating between New York and Chicago on the Erie, will arrive in Marion from New York at 11:22 a. m. and depart for Chicago at 11:30 a. m., starting Sunday. The train formerly arrived and left five minutes later.

Train No. 8 to Cincinnati on the Erie will leave Marion at 11:35 a. m., also five minutes later than under the old time table.

Train No. 7, formerly leaving Marion at 1:20 a. m., will depart for Chicago at 1:10, under the new schedule. It will arrive here from New York at 12:50 a. m.

Gas Car Change

The gas car No. 226, operating between Marion and Huntington as a local, will arrive in Marion from Huntington at 12:50 instead of 1:05 p. m.

The two Hocking Valley trains to change are No. 37, northbound to Toledo and Detroit, and No. 34, southbound to Columbus and beyond. Train No. 37, now leaving here for Toledo and other northern points at 12:50 a. m. will depart at 12:40 a. m. under the new schedule. Train 34, now leaving for Columbus at 4:46, has been changed to 4:15, starting Sunday.

All trains named above run daily.

Time Changed

A few weeks ago the Erie Railroad changed from Central to Eastern time but made no change in the time table. The above changes are the only to be in effect this summer.

The Hocking Valley a few weeks ago changed the time of two of their trains but did not make a complete change of schedule. The time change mentioned above probably are the only to be made this summer.

Only one bus line has changed time for the summer. The Marion-Lima Transit Co. last week inaugurated the policy of running buses between Marion, Kenton and Lima only every two hours. The schedule originally called for a bus each hour.

The Big Four change took place a few months ago and the Pennsylvania probably will not announce any new schedule this summer.

Rail Briefs

W. K. Kendall, dairy agent of the Erie Railroad, with offices in Chicago, was in Marion yesterday.

G. T. Depew, mechanical engineer of the Erie, was a visitor here yesterday. His headquarters are in Youngstown.

C., D. & M. WILL REPAIR TRACKS ON TWO STREETS

Work on N. State and Davids-sts To Start by July 1, Claim

Work of repairing the street along the tracks of the C., D. & M. Electric Co. on N. State and Davids-st will start not later than July 1. This assurance was given city officials by officers of the company today.

The announcement was made at a conference held by City Solicitor Geran and W. P. Moloney, attorney for the street railway company, and L. C. Stang, superintendent of the light and power department of the company.

The conference followed a demand made by Marion City Council that some action be taken relative to repairing the streets, which, it was declared by city officials, had become a menace to automobile travel. A section of Davids-st several blocks long was repaired by the company last year. Both ends of the street, however, are in bad condition, city officials say.

Material, including new rails for the repair of the streets has been ordered, Mr. Moloney said, and work of making the repairs will start as soon as the materials arrive which, he said, would not be later than July 1.

No promise to repair the street along the E. Center-st tracks could be obtained from company officials, who said the railway company would not have the money to repair the street this year. They said, however, that the work would in all probability be done next year.

DUNN WINS SUIT

Cleveland, May 25—A jury of eight men and four women returned a verdict in favor of James "Jimmy" Dunn, promoter and former manager of Johnny Kilbane, who was defendant in a $100,000 alienation suit filed by Frank Fox, Cleveland. Fox alleged that Dunn had stolen the affections of his wife, Marcella. Dunn denied the charges, maintaining that his friendship for Mrs. Fox was purely platonic.

You say you haven't time to take exercise? Is your office on the eleventh floor? Then walk up to it every day instead of taking the elevator. The oftener, the better.

Noted Conductor Sees in America Art's Greatest Hope

NICKOLAI SOKOLOFF

CLEVELAND, O., May [illegible]—There is no country in the world that has accomplished such [illegible] industrially, commercially [illegible] architecturally as America [illegible] several centuries.

Its skyscrapers, its institutions, its enterprises are a source of endless wonders to other countries.

But America is rapidly de[illegible] another claim to greatness—a greatness that will wipe off the sneer of Europeans who claim that commercialism is making Americans blind to the esthetic and spiritual things in life.

America, the traditionally [illegible] money-mad, money-making America, is beginning to make other things [illegible]. She is laying a firm foundation for cultural greatness.

So predicts Nickolai Sokoloff, one of the outstanding symphony [illegible] conductors in this country as well as abroad.

Sokoloff's Opinion

"Americans no longer are satisfied to accumulate wealth for the sheer pleasure of possessing it," he says. "They have come to realize that to make their lives complete they must turn to things of enduring beauty and spiritual quality, and so, today, it can be truthfully said that America everywhere is showing [illegible] keen appreciation of the arts and through organized groups is supporting [illegible] artistic endeavors, thus bringing before the people [illegible] the opportunity to hear and see the best that art and music has to offer.

"This is not true in Europe," he adds. "In the old days when governments supported musicians, artists and literary geniuses, Europe was easily a center of culture, but that day has passed. The World war has wrought tremendous changes, and governments today are struggling under most acute financial difficulties. Neither do wealthy citizens lend their financial support in the interest of art.

"For example, in London, where I conducted the London Symphony Orchestra for several seasons as guest conductor, the symphony orchestra is entirely dependent on patronage, and if attendance is not adequate, orchestra members are without pay. It is said that English people are too poor to maintain organizations that are not self-supporting. I observed, however, fabulous sums were spent on the Derby and other popular sports.

Art and Commerce Friendly

"Often I have heard discussions as to the effect of cultural development in America upon business development. It is said that emotional development and esthetic tastes will produce a certain decline in the keen pursuits of purely commercial interests. But I observe that it is usually men who all their lives have pursued just such purely commercial interests that are realizing more and more the stimulating power and influence of fine things in life, and are using their resources to foster them.

"The curriculum of our schools today has embraced such wide proportions in the study of arts that it is laying the finest foundation for future generations, infusing an imperishable wealth into their lives. Art and music never can dampen interest in achievement of any kind any more than color, warmth and beauty can diminish the value of an otherwise empty and cold house."

AWAIT SENTENCE

Two Montgomery County Dry Raiders Convicted of Conspiracy

Dayton, May 25—Joe W. Sidwell and Earl Severs, Van Buren Township dry raiders, today are awaiting June 1, when they are to be sentenced by Federal Judge Hough, following their conviction of conspiracy. The men were found guilty on three charges.

According to witnesses, the two men accepted money for protecting bootleggers. Federal operatives testified they found "a little book," which outlined a schedule of prices of liquor, names and addresses and an indication of payment of money for protection.

Sidwell has been at liberty under $10,000 bond, and Severs under $20,000 bond since March, when they were arrested here and hurried to Cincinnati and summarily charged.

OHIO REFORMATORY HEAD ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLING

Mansfield, May 25—Judson H. Darling, chief of the poultry department at the Ohio Reformatory here, is at liberty under $1,000 bond here charged with embezzling $774 public funds.

The indictment was returned today by the Richland County Grand Jury. It is claimed Darling sold poultry and eggs to Mansfield dealers for the last three years.

RUSSELL RESIGNS

Columbus, May 25—Price Russell has tendered his resignation as member of the state board of clemency to Gov. A. V. Donahey. He is a Democrat, formerly of Creston, Wayne County. Russell for many years has held state positions having served as executive clerk both under Governors Cox and Donahey and more recently as state insurance inspector.

CITY RECEIVES 30 BIDS FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Contracts for Work Will Be Awarded June 2, Service Director Announces

Thirty bids for improvements to be completed this year, were opened by Service Director Benedict in city hall at noon yesterday. It required nearly one hour and a half for the bids to be read by City Clerk Keller. Contracts for the work will be awarded June 2, the service director said today.

Six bids were submitted for the resurfacing of Columbia-st from High to Davids-sts and six for Blaine-av from Church to Center-sts. These represent the only street paving or resurfacing to be done by the city this year. Bids for [illegible] were submitted by Uncapher & Gillespie, P. Drake & Son and J. C. & W. K. Drake, all of this city and The Republic Asphalt Company of Columbus, The Streicher Company of Toledo and The Brooks Construction Company of Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Sewer Bids

Five bids each for the following three sewers were read: Kensington-pl from Church-st to the southern terminus, Chambers-st from Keener-av to the southern terminus and Johnston-st from Wilson-av north to the north side of Lot No. 1876. Bids for the three sewers were submitted by Uncapher & Gillespie, P. Drake & Son, Gus Kohlbarger and George Landon, of this city and Landon Brothers of Caledonia.

Bids for but one sidewalk were opened. O. H. Noble and H. C. Phelps of this city and Landon Brothers of Caledonia submitted bids for the building of a sidewalk on Edgewood-dr.

Dissention over materials to be used in resurfacing Columbia-st, has arisen among the property owners on the street. Amesite, asphalt, brick, and asphalt block all have their boosters but the engineering department has played safe, however, and specified each of the materials in its requirements for bids.

Should it be imposible for the property owners to get together on a material it is likely that the matter will be settled by the board of control, which has the authority to award the contract but prefers to select a material satisfacory to the greatest number.

Borer Clean-up Conforming To New Regulations Will Be Continued In County

Plan To Avoid Interference in Sprinig Planting Work and To Forego Enforcement Measures Likely To Cause Crop Losses

Federal and state authorities will carry their corn borer clean-up campaign through to completion in Marion County during the next few weeks but in doing the work utmost care will be taken to avoid interference with spring planting and to forego any enforcement measures which might result in crop losses.

This was made known here yesterday when a representative of L. H. Worthley of Toledo, federal administrator in charge of the corn borer campaign in Ohio and five other states, held a conference with the seven inspectors assisting in the work in Marion County.

Consider Unusual Delay

It was indicated that the clean-up officials will take into consideration the fact that prolonged rainy weather has prevented the farmers from complying with government orders as fully as would have been possible under more favorable conditions.

The rule will be, according to reports of the conference, to do no enforced clean-up work on farms where the land-owners or tenants have done "the best that they could," to comply with regulations.

Appointment of a new supervisor of the clean-up work in Marion County was announced at yesterday's conference. Perle Johnson, Hardin County farmer will have charge in Marion and Morrow Counties.

Up to this time, Marion County has been under the supervision of Foster L. Finkle of Upper Sandusky, who also had charge of the work in Wyandot County.

Work Divided Unevenly

The change was made primarily because lateness of the season necessitated a realignment of the forces in this territory. The district was not evenly divided, placing too much work on some of the supervisors especially since weather conditions have delayed the clean-up and the time for completing it is limited.

The change was made here mainly to relieve Mr. Finkie and also Supervisor Knappenberger, of Bucyrus, who was in charge of the campaign in Morrow and Crawford Counties.

At the conference yesterday a communication from Administrator Worthley was read in which he notified local corn borer officials of the federal order exempting wheat, oats, rye and barley from the original clean-up regulations.

"Where any property owner has already cleaned up his oats, rye, wheat or barley fields prior to the issuance of the exemption order," Mr. Worthley's letter read, "he will be reimbursed for his extra labor cost, provided, of course, that all other debris on his property has been cleaned up."

Other Crops Not Exempt

"This order, however, does not exempt any other part of the clean-up work. All other corn crop debris, stubble or stalks of any kind whatsoever must be cleaned up in accordance with the regulations and these regulations are to be strictly enforced.

"Please rush your work to the limit on such other things as may have to be done in your territory and serve notices on all parties where any clean-up should be made, other than those places which are exempted.

"Where there is no corn land but there is still debris to be cleaned up around the buildings, feed lots, and so forth, a satisfactory arrangement will be made for the extra labor fee for this work."

Cash Prizes Are Offered In Ask Me Another Contest

"ASK Me Another Week," one of the most popular puzzle ideas which America has known, will be celebrated in Marion starting tomorrow, when The Star will carry the announcement of one hundred dollars in gold as prizes for those readers who like to divulge in this pastime. Four full pages of questions will be asked, and the prizes will be awarded for the list of answers which are most nearly correct. Thirty-five dollars are offered for the best list, $20 for the second, $10 for the third, $5 for the fourth, and the next 30 in order will receive $1 each.

Five Marion business men will judge the lists of answers submitted. Most of the questions will concern local stores, and it will be considered perfectly proper for any contestant to call by telephone or visit the store to find the correct answer to any of the questions. In other words, it will be easily possible for anyone to turn in a perfect list of answers, if sufficient time is spent in solving the contest. It will not be necessary to answer all questions, in order to submit a solution. Each contestant should answer as many as possible, and the prizes will go to the readers who answer the greatest number. All solutions must be sent to the Contest Editor of The Star not later than Saturday night, and the contest winner will be announced next Tuesday.

FIVE TONS OF DYNAMITE USED IN SINGLE BLAST

Evans Stone Quarry Sets Off Huge Charge; First Attempt Fails

Five tons of dynamite! One great blast! And 40,000 tons of rock shower over an acre of ground at the Evans Stone Quarry, two miles north of Marion.

The blast was set off at noon today to loosen more stone at the quarry.

Two hundred holes, arranged in semi-circles and drilled eight feet apart, each containing fifty pounds of dynamite, were responsible for the explosion. A three-minute fuse set off the charge.

For the third time in the history of the Evans quarry, the blast was a failure on first try. Men had been warned and the fuse set. Everything was in readiness for the great upheaval, and the dynamite from only 14 of the 200 holes exploded. Even then the stone was scattered for hundreds of feet from the scene of the blast.

Defective Fuse

A hurried examination disclosed that a piece of the fuse connecting the holes was defective and had failed to carry the charge. The wires were again given a thorough examination, a new fuse attached, and watchers waited in suspense for the outcome of the second attempt.

It was a success. The earth trembled for a mile around as the mighty blast scattered 40,000 tons of stone far and wide.

Blasts are made at the Evans quarry four or five times each year to make more loose stone available. The holes are drilled 20 feet deep. One pound of dynamite will displace four tons of rock and stone, quarry men say. From five to nine tons of dynamite are used in each blast during the year.

BROTHER OF MARION MAN STRICKEN IN WADSWORTH

Word of the sudden death of his brother, Chalmer J. Irey, at Wadsworth, was received this morning by H. G. Irey, Forest-st. His death, which occurred at 5 o'clock this morning, came as a shock to relatives and friends here as it was not known that he had been ill.

Mr. Irey was 42 years of age and was born in this county, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Irey. He had made his home in this city up until eight years ago when he moved to Wadsworth. While living here he was employed at the C. E. Turner grocery. Surviving with his brother here, are his wife and three children, one brother, R. M. Irey of near Warren and two sisters, Miss Fern Irey and Mrs. Orral Smith, both of Youngstown. FIVE GRADUATE APPRENTICES GET DIPLOMAS

Rev. R. W. Smiley Addresses Marion Steam Shovel Group at Banquet

Five graduate apprentices of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. last night received their diplomas during the annual banquet of the Apprentice Club, foreman and officials of the company at the Harding Hotel.

Rev. Raymond W. Smiley of the Presbyterian Church was the principal speaker for the occasion, with Ray R. King acting as toastmaster. One hundred were present.

Francis W. Bacon, personnel director of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., presided during the presentation of the diplomas, giving an account of each graduate's splendid work during the apprentice trade courses.

Those receiving diplomas were Walter Barton, pattern maker, a graduate of Harding High; Ralph Howald, electrician, a graduate of Waldo High; Lester Alexander, draftsman, who came here from Springfield three years ago; Clifford Ward, draftsman, of Green Camp, and Robert Penniston, draftsman, of Richwood.

Mr. Penniston was president of the Apprentice Club last year and was one of the organizers. Clifford Ward is president of the club at present and is one of the most popular youths among the Steam Shovel workers.

Students Talk

Each youth receiving a diploma responded with a brief talk, telling of the great benefit reaped from the apprentice course. Charles B. King, vice president and general manager of the company, also addressed the meeting and presented the speaker, Rev. Smiley.

Reverend Smiley chose for his subject, "The Kind of a Man the World's Looking For." The man the world's looking for, he declared, must have a little pride, confidence optimism, education, and must not be lazy.

The speaker stressed the advantage of education and pointed out the progress made by education in this country. An educated man, he said, is not a person with lots of knowledge, but a person who has ability to apply that knowledge. Education, he concluded, teaches one to "know one's self, control one's self, and to deny one's self."

Mr. Bacon gave a brief talk as did Harry Cronsap, who represented the foremen of the plant.

Ruth's Syncopators furnished music for the occasion.

LOGAN GAS CO. REFUSES PROPOSITION OF ELYRIA

President of Utiity Turns Down Offer To Negotiate Agreement on Rates

Efforts of City Solicitor D. W. Myers of Elyria to negotiate a gas rate settlement for his city, independent of other Ohio municipalities involved in a controversy with the Logan Gas Co., ended in failure yesterday. Elyria and more than 30 other cities, including Marion, have been contesting rate increases in proceedings before the state utilities commission.

Raymond Cross, president of the gas company, sent a letter to Myers yesterday notifying him of the company's decision to drop separate negotiations with Elyria.

In the same letter, Cross indicated that unless the rate controversy with the entire group of cities is settled before August, 1928, when the Elyria franchise expires, that city will have to look elsewhere for its gas supply.

Attorneys for the cities are now preparing to resume the fight before the utilities commission. Grant E. Mouser, Jr., assistant attorney general and former Marion city solicitor who represents this city in the fight, recently stated that the battle front is unbroken and that he believes he and his associates will eventually score a victory.

INVESTIGATION FAILS TO REVEAL THEFT CLEWS

Officers Continue Probe of Robbery at Schneider Barbecue Stand

Investigation of the burglary which occurred yesterday morning at the Schneider Barbecue, two miles south of the city, resulting in the theft of $300 in currency and coin, has failed to uncover any clews, Deputy Sheriff Vane Ireland stated today. Ireland has been working on the case since it was reported to the sheriff's office shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday.

The money was taken from the cash register at the barbecue. Edward Schneider, the proprietor, was in the yard at the rear of his home nearby. A sharp instrument, believed to have been an ice pick which had been left on a shelf nearby, was used to pry open a metal safety compartment in the cash register in which the money had been placed.

ONE CENT INCREASE IN GAS TAX FELT IN CITY

Local Filling Stations Announce Advance as Levy Becomes Effective

Gasoline prices in Marion took a one-cent boost as the result of the new Ohio excise gas tax, a general survey of distributing stations revealed today.

The new tax, provided for in the Sullivan Bill, which raises the former two-cent assessment to three cents, became effective last night.

Included in the legislative program designed to wipe out the deficit in the state treasury, the new law is expected to increase the state's revenues about $6,000,000 a year. All of this money is to be used for highway construction purposes.

their mark, Lindbergh wasn't a model scholar. He walked off with honors in the subjects he liked, but in those in which he was not interested he barely passed. If he liked the instructor and believed he was learning something from him Lindbergh applied himself and usually carried off honors.

Lindbergh was more interested in the subject itself than in the mark which would be given him at the end of the semester. If he didn't feel as if he wanted to hand in a report or take a final examination, he didn't do it.

A student who was in Lindbergh's mechanical engineering class says Charles did many more experiments than were required, yet, at the end of the course he neglected to write his reports, since he lost interest once he felt he had mastered all the instructor could teach him. He studied because he wanted to learn, not to please his teacher.

Both Like Chemistry

When Charles failed to apply himself at school there was no punishment forthcoming at home, Mrs. Lindbergh says. She considers it useless to try to force a child to take a subject in which he has no interest.

"Charles takes after me, I guess, in his liking for chemistry," she relates. "In looking through his chemistry text books, I find every line about explosives underlined. When Charles makes up his mind he likes a subject he isn't satisfied until he has mastered it."

Mrs. Lindbergh smiles as she says, "I suppose he beats me now when it comes to a knowledge of technical chemistry."

The Soviet officials were prepared to depart as soon as the house of commons gave official confirmation to the cabinet's decision to break off with Moscow, severing both diplomatic and commercial relations.

From present indications the government is assured of a sweeping victory in the commons tomorrow when the breach with Russia comes to a vote.

According to present plans the foreign office will send a note to Russia giving formal notification as soon as the commons confirms the break off in relations.

WILL NOT ATTEMPT TO AVOID RUPTURE

Moscow, May 25—Soviet Russia will make no effort to avoid the coming rupture of diplomatic relations with Great Britain, the foreign office announced today.

News of the decision of the British cabinet to break with Russia has been received here with a surprising lack of excitement, which is evidenced by the editorials appearing in the official newspapers.

"Great Britain has entered upon a policy which must bring the most terrible consequences to European peace," said Izvestia.

"We will await with complete calm further developments and events. Since Curzon's ultimatum of four years ago there has been unceasing growth for the Soiet. The Soviet union has become a world power and if it has many enemies it also has many friends."

was asked what use the free balloon was," said Lindbergh, "and replied, 'What use is a new born babe.'

"Less than 20 years ago Bleriot, your countryman, flew across the English Channel and people said, 'What good is this?'

"Today a New York-Paris flight is a fact and they are asking, 'What good is an Atlantic flight.'

"It seems to me that we have served a wonderful purpose in bringing together two peoples and two continents in a friendship that has existed more than 100 years."

Then Lindbergh, the boy, having for the first time since he made his flight admitted his belief that he had actually accomplished something worthy of world attention withdrew, his short speech being wildly acclaimed but being all too short to suit his listeners.

The majority of the 500 deputies were present and paid the closest attention as Lindbergh spoke in a cool and clear boyish voice, apparently having steeled his courage for this event, for when he entered the gilded corridors of the chamber he had been apparently nervous and had continually clung to Ambassador Herrick and Counsellor Whitehouse.

Herrick Overcome

General Girod addressed Lindbergh on behalf of the chamber.

"You have constructed a most magnificent world bridge, which has united two great world capitals," said General Girod, speaking directly to Lindbergh. "You have united not only two continents but two hearts which beat in unison for universal peace."

Lindbergh shifted uneasily and his face was aflush as this speech was made, and Ambassador Herrick was overcome with emotion and sobbed openly.

"I am overcome by the emotion stirred in me by the expressions and sentiments I feel around me, resulting from what this boy so worthily and so truthfully representing the spirit of American youth has done for Franco-American friendship," said Ambassador Herrick.

"Your expressions prove that the American sentiment as brought here and expressed by this boy is reciprocated. I can't help remembering that when we needed you, you came to us."

When the speeches were concluded and Lindbergh left, the chamber forgot its dignity and deputies toppled over chairs, jumped hedges and vaulted from windows in order to get a closer glimpse of the flying hero.

Triumphal Reception

Leaving the chamber, Lindbergh's progress was a triumphal reception as he made his way through the boulevards. Crowds thronged about him and cheered wildly when he stopped at the offices of Le Matin and entered.

Seemingly unimpressed by his great ovation, Lindbergh went to the upper stories of Le Matin Building for a view of the city, and looked out a long time as the broad expanses spread before him.

"This is more like the Paris I have dreamed about and read about and I am beginning to feel for the first time that I am in France," he said.

Leaving Le Matin offices Lindbergh was again besieged on all sides by his admirers as he proceeded to the American Embassy.

Paris seems unable to get enough of Lindbergh and he made his way to the embassy with slow progress. At the embassy he decided to take a well-earned rest.

While in Brussels, Lindbergh will be a guest at the American Embassy.

Lindbergh was back in his own sphere earlier today, completely happy as he tinkered with wrenches and drills, working as an ordinary mechanic upon his plane, which has been standing in a hangar here since Saturday when Lindbergh arrived from New York.

Spurns All Help

The grinning youth seemed hardly able to restrain himself when he arrived at the hangars this morning to work on his machine. He spurned offers from mechanics of overalls and jumpers and unmindful of his new clothes started immediately climbing over the plane, examining damage done by souvenir hunters and making arrangements for materials and tools with which to repair the plane.

The young flier made no effort to hide his satisfaction at being back in the world of motors and struts and gasoline and oil.

"I wish I could stay here all day and I wish I could fly a little," Lindbergh told the International News Service correspondent, as he started to work.

"My only chance of being alone is to go up on a flight, but unfortunately I cannot do that now because I have too many engagements commencing at noon."

Mechanics Admire Him

As Lindbergh, dragging a stepladder with him to enable him to reach parts of the plane, worked busily upon the giant machine, French mechanics gathered and stood in little groups [illegible] admiring the [illegible] ually impeded his work. Always courteous whenever he alighted from a step-ladder upon the toes of some gaping French mechanic, Lindbergh apologized and there was an exchange of courtesies which would have made the mechanics at Garden City, where there is no mincing of language, gasp with surprise.

Damage done to Lindbergh's machine by souvenir hunters has been repaired, mechanics have patched up the holes cut in the canvas by the crowds of curious that swarmed into the airdrome Saturday night despite the efforts of the police to keep them out.

A crowd got within the fenced enclosure containing the machine this morning and started cutting strips of canvas from the wings of the plane but they were quickly routed by the guards.

Lindbergh finished working on his plane at 11:30 o'clock and leaving the hangar vaulted a high fence, instead of seeking the gate, much to the enjoyment of the assembled admirers. He then proceeded to visit other hangars on the field and was in his glory inspecting commercial planes and watching mechanics at work on motors. Capt. Richard White, naval attache suggested to Lindbergh that he get into his automobile and drive from hangar to hangar. "You get the car and ride along and pick me up later," answered Lindbergh, which White did.

Growing Tired

The young flier admitted that he has found the constant receptions very tiring and he feared that today would be an even more tiring day.

When the International News Service correspondent gave the flier a message from his mother in Detroit saying she was not coming to Paris, Lindbergh smiled and said, "thank you, I knew that. Please tell her I'll advise her in plenty of time when to go to New York to meet me. I wish I could say right now when I'll go, but I don't know."

The official invitation for Lindbergh to return home by a warship has not been received yet.

MARIE BUNKER BRINGS SUIT SEEKING DIVORCE

Action of Minor Filed by Father; Charges Failure To Provide

Suit for divorce was filed in the court of common pleas this morning by Marie Bunker, 18, against James M. Bunker, the petition charging the husband with gross neglect and failure to provide.

Because of the plaintiff being a minor, the petition was filed by William Cook, named as her father and next friend. Mrs. Bunker asks for divorce, alimony and restoration of her maiden name, Marie Cook.

The couple were married in this city on Dec. 12, 1925, the bride then being 16 years of age. No children have been born, the petition states.

The youthful wife alleges that Bunker frequently asked her to return to her father's home, declaring that he did not care to live with her. She says that he subjected her to abuse and at one time assaulted her.

She also accuses Bunker of infidelity. Her attorney is H. E. Hill.

The following appointments were made in probate court, yesterday:

Carl McKelvy and Lois McKelvy Field, administrators of the estate of Charles McKelvy.

Landy F. Shoots, executor of the will of Alice E. Shoots.

JAMES NESSELRODE, 23, BROUGHT BACK TO CITY

Faces Charges of Obtaining Property Under False Pretenses

James Nesselrode, 23, was brought back to this city from Ravenswood, W. Va., by Patrolman Cusic, late yesterday afternoon to answer to a charge of obtaining property under false pretenses.

According to M. L. McDaniel, of the Marion Overland Co., who filed the affidavit, Nesselrode bought an automobile from the Overland company last year, giving as security a mortgage on a property in Marion which he claimed to own. An investigation following his failure to make payments as agreed, resulted in the discovery that he was not the owner of the property and also that he had left the city with the car, McDaniel charges. He was arrested in Ravenswood Monday.

Whether he was more efficient or not, it's a certainty that his very presence had a beneficial effect. He no sooner entered the door, than the patient felt better.

An exchange says that Chancellor Churchill, faced by a bigger deficit than anticipated, proposes to raise the duties on American tobacco, tires and films. Assisting Europe.

Since the United States passed from a debtor to a creditor nation and became the world's banker, much has appeared in type concerning the material assistance afforded Europe and the rest of the world by our banking interests. Not so long ago we came upon a statement to the effect that the United States had assisted the world in maintaining its credits to the extent of $1,000,000,000 last year, the bulk of the money loaned going to Europe. Reading such articles the tendency is to assume that the banking interests chiefly, if not alone, were pouring their gold into the lands beyond the Atlantic. We say beyond the Atlantic for the overwhelming amount of it goes that way.

But the banking interests have not been alone in this respect. It is to be questioned if they have actually been the chief agents in distributing gold or its equivalent throughout Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Jones, of Oshkosh; Mr. and Mrs. Smith, of Kalamazoo; Mr. and Mrs. Brown, of Muncie, and hundreds of thousands of others have been quite busy that way.

Early in the season it was figured that 500,000 Americans would go to Europe this year, but as the season advanced the rush has been so greatly intensified that that number will probably be exceeded. Some years ago, it was safe to figure that the average American in Europe would expend $1,000 over there, but European prices have gone up by leaps and bounds and longer stays are being made over there with consequent increased expenditures. It has been figured that the average traveler left $1,500 over in Europe last year. That may have covered the average cost for necessities, but the extras probably went fully fifty per cent. more. Prices are higher this year and it is more than possible, even probable, that, everything included, Americans will leave over $2,000 on the average over in Europe this year. If they do, the banking interests must drop to second place as renderers of financial aid and comfort to Europe. In any event, the governments of Europe who are our debtors will not begin to pay us back, even though they may pay us promptly such installments of their debts as fall due, anything like the amounts American travelers will expend in Europe this season. The American traveler as a dispenser of financial aid to debtor nations is fast growing into a class by himself.

Regarding Municipal Government.

In an article in the Cambridge, Massachusetts, Tribune, on the objectives of the various taxpayers' organizations as revealed by a survey of the taxpayers' associations of the United States made by the National Industrial Conference board Miller McClintock, director of municipal research of Harvard university makes some interesting observations which are of special appeal to us.

The objectives brought out by him are the prevention of current extravagances in appropriations of public funds or instances of faulty financing and a general improvement of taxation system. This could have been taken for granted, but that which was particularly pleasing to us was his conclusion, so long maintained in these columns, that the root of our trouble was not so much the system of government municipalities employ, but rather the kind of men chosen to operate them.

"The kind of government any municipality enjoys," is the way Mr McClintock puts it, "depends more upon the kind of men who are administering it than upon superficial changes in the form itself. No government is as bad as its opponents try to make out, and none so good as its proponents claim. The public gets the kind of government it has the interest and intelligence to demand" Mr. McClintock then goes on and likens government to business, pointing out that "industry is no longer made up of capital and labor," that a new group has come into industry which is known as the management group which performs duties for both capital and labor. He says these duties have become more and more of a profession; that, were this not so, industry would never have reached its present state

"Stockholders—owners—rarely exercise any discretion at all," Mr. McClintock says, "in the handling of a company's affairs," and he asks: "Does this not teach us something about government as well?" Then he goes on to show that municipal government isn't a matter of politics, but a matter of complicated business; that, just as the management of the modern industry is a thing separate and apart from mere ownership so must management of public affairs become a thing apart from mere politics if government is to be efficient and taxes are to be reduced to a minimum

This has long been our contention. We invariably seek improvement in municipal government by seeking changes in our form of government. Right here at home, we have discussed the adoption of this, that or the other form as a substitute for that we now employ. If we are not mistaken there is at present a committee in being to study the city manager form. We are following the trend in thus hoping to lessen our tax burden. It's the common mistake to seek relief through method rather than through men. When we forget politics and no longer vote for men for municipal office because they are Republicans or Democrats, wets or drys, Catholics or Protestants, and cast our ballot for fellow-citizens we know to be honest and upright, capable and fitted for the position to be filled, then, and then only, will we receive the kind of government we should have.

Wasteful Handling of Foods.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

On the facade of the Union station in Washington are a number of remarkable inscriptions. Each of them is worth thinking about and repeating for the benefit of our friends. I recall this one:

"Fire, greatest of discoveries, enabling man to live in various climates, use many foods, and compel the forces of nature to do his work."

In the beginning, men were dependent on nature for everything they had to eat. Fruits berries, the tender bark of trees, edible roots and raw meat, if they had meat at all, made up the diet of human beings. Men were little different from the beasts of the field.

It was not until man discovered fire that he widened his knowledge of foodstuffs. He learned how to choose and prepare his dishes. No longer did he crush and gnaw his food as animals do. He found out how to fry, boil and stew

No longer did he need to dwell in the tropics. By the aid of fire he could face any climate and give himself the pleasure of roaming the earth.

It was not a long step from fire to steam. Then he made engines and reduced the hardships of manual labor.

Indeed, it is true that fire is the greatest of discoveries. It has revolutionized the life of man.

However, we have much to learn about the proper use of fire. Our cooking methods should be studied with a view to better preparation of the food. Many of our methods are crude and wasteful.

When the population is denser and the competitions of life are keener, civilized man will use greater skill in his application of fire to the cooking of food. But for the sake of health and comfort, we should make that study at once.

Perhaps it is in the cooking of vegetables that we suffer our greatest losses. Down South the fluid in which vegetables are boiled is called "pot likker." We have a bad habit of throwing it away. This is a pity, because it has absorbed the valuable minerals and vitamins.

Vegetables prepared in this way should be uncovered and the vapor be permitted to pass into the air. This method will permit the water to evaporate, leaving the mineral elements in the pot.

Too much fried food is not good for us. Many times a dyspeptic will get surprising relief by giving up such dishes and reducing the intake of sugar.

Let us make use of fire, greatest of all discoveries, in such a manner as to promote health and well-being.

Editorial Comment.

HAND TO MOUTH BUYING.

One radical change has taken place in American business during recent years, and that is the habit of what is called "hand-to-mouth buying" among merchants. It has become a common practice for retail stores, instead of buying great lots of goods intended to carry them through a season, to buy in small lots as they want those goods. Some might say that that plan involves some extra expense, as it must cost more for freight and express on all these little lots, than it does to ship them in a few big lots for use over a period of some months.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce, of Toronto, expresses the opinion in a recent survey that this new method of handling merchandise is more scientific. It finds that in periods of depression heavy stocks of goods have been one of the chief difficulties. But in a period of dull business, there are no large stocks of goods on hand that have to be moved before new orders can be given. The every day needs of the public keep calling for more goods, so that the demand for merchandise is fairly regular even when business is slow.

With smaller stocks to carry, the retail store can get along on less capital. It is saved from paying a heavy sum as an interest charge. It would seem that that should more than offset the additional cost of express or freight charges due to shipments in small lots.

The prevalence of this plan is no doubt an important reason why there has been abundant capital in the country to supply the needs of trade through the busy times of the past few years.

Thousands of retail stores are getting along with less borrowed money than before, owing to the fact that they no longer felt it necessary to stock up for months in advance. The abundance of capital keeps the interest rates down, and works for less expensive production.—Newark Advocate.

MAY NEED REVISION.

Women in industry are not handicapped, as has been charged, by legislation regulating their hours of work, according to a report of the women's bureau of the department of labor made at the national conference of social work in Des Moines. Instead, more jobs are opened for women and both their working hours and those of men are shortened and standardized throughout entire communities.

Some interesting conditions were disclosed by the investigation which preceded this report. Industries in nine states, including Ohio, were studied and more than a thousand working women interviewed, establishing the fact that reluctance of employers to use women in night work under any circumstances was a far more potent factor than legislation in limiting the employment of women, and that barring women from night work does not close day jobs to them.

Laws barring women from certain occupations do, however, have a discriminatory effect in some cases. Ohio, for instance, prohibits the employment of women as taxi drivers and in certain forms of grinding. Yet in Philadelphia considerable numbers of women drive taxis to their own satisfaction and that of their employers. In some states women are employed as grinders under generally satisfactory conditions.

Ohio has no desire to hinder women from making a living in any legitimate way they wish, providing it is compatible with health and safety. The idea in barring them from specified occupations was to safeguard them from work which might be injurious. If the experience of other states has proved that such occupations are harmless and women find them congenial, it might be well for Ohio to consider lifting the ban against them.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

STATE LAW AND NON-RESIDENT MOTORIST.

A man from Philadelphia, motoring in Massachusetts, ran over and seriously injured a child of Stanislaw Pawloski, a resident of Worcester, Massachusetts. The father brought suit for damages, under the provisions of the Massachusetts law, and the case finally came to the supreme court at Washington, on the contention that the Massachusetts enactment is in contravention of the "due process of law" clause of the fourteenth amendment.

The decision, handed down by Justice Butler, sustained the constitutionality of the Massachusetts law, and its application to the case in hand. "Motor vehicles are dangerous machines," said Justice Butler, "and even when skilfully and carefully operated, their use is attended by serious dangers to persons and property. In the public interest, the state may make and enforce regulations reasonably calculated to promote care on the part of all, residents and non-residents alike, who use its highways."

Where a state has an inherent right of this nature, as a part of its normal police power, the federal supreme court will always give the benefit of any possible doubt to legislation enacted for the enforcement of that right. Such laws will stand, unless conflict with some provision of the federal constitution is definite and unmistakable. This is the first case of the kind, it is said, that the supreme court has had to deal with in the matter of automobile legislation. Now that a non-resident's responsibility under a state's traffic laws has been thus definitely stated, the argument in favor of a uniform traffic code in all states would seem to be all the stronger.—Columbus Dispatch.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Representative government doesn't work as well as it might, but the sun is coming up. People's minds are turning to politics and elections. They should. In states which have no nominating conventions, primaries are more important than general elections. Get the right men nominated and it doesn't make so much difference who's elected. Indifference is the arch foe of good government. Do some thinking now Do some voting later. Sad to say, some of the people who think the most vote the least.

A modern novelist speaks of a certain woman as a "Vestal of the kitchen stove." The vestal virgins of Rome had certain work to do in the temples. No one was more exalted. This phrase, "vestal of the kitchen stove," was not lightly spoken. Is is full of meaning

You who read this today may think that you spend many of the hours of your life at the kitchen stove. Your days are full of little tasks—or big and unpleasant ones. There are children to get to school, beds to make, meals to get, washing and ironing and work to do in endless procession. It is the dull parade of life—without music and without color. Face the facts, and do not be mistaken. The fact that there are people absolutely dependent upon you makes your work important, whether it is drudgery or whether it is something else.

Such a brilliant panorama has been unrolled in America in the last sixty years, such amazing events have marked the building of this nation, such an astonishing parade of affairs has engrossed the attention of the generation, that we have thought too little of the triumphant sacrifice of the veterans of the civil war. No honor is too great to pay, either North or South, to those who gave so much in defense of a great cause. The rags of dissolution have been woven into the seamless garment of national solidarity. Let us not forget those who suffered that it might be so.

"Inasmuch" is a wonderful word "For I was an hungered and ye gave me no meat: I was thirsty and ye gave me no drink"

"And the King shall answer and say unto them: 'Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of My brethren, ye have done it unto me.'"

Inasmuch as we do the best we know how, inasmuch as we are true to the light as we see it, inasmuch as we are loyal to a principle we shall have the satisfaction of the soul and peace in our hearts.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Saturday.

The old Catholic school building was sold to the Houghton-Merkel company for the consideration of $650.

There was a rainfall of almost three inches.

Little Miss Laven Smith, a pupil of the Prospect School of Music, gave a recital at the school. The little six-year-old miss charmed all.

Miss Minnie Wolfinger was given a surprise at her home six miles south of Marion by a large party of friends in honor of her eighteenth birthday.

The High school juniors enjoyed a picnic at Marion park. These were the days when picnics were decidedly popular.

Ameal Reamsnyder was knocked from his chair by a bolt of lightning at his home at Kirkpatrick. A large hole was torn in the roof.

Miss Alice Dombaugh and Miss Gladys Cleveland gave a shower at the home of the former on north State street in honor of Miss Marie Turner whose marriage was to be solemnized the following Wednesday.

Miss Anna Uncapher, who took the first honors in the High school graduating class, was given a scholarship by the president of Ohio Wesleyan university.

M C. Foos, who attempted suicide a few days before at Monongehela was identified as a Marion man, whose mother resided on Lincoln avenue.

Miss Grace B. Coler and Mr Tracy Miller were married by Rev. L C Reed

A marriage license was issued to Noah E Sharkey and Belle Sinden.

It was announced tha the Erie shops might be moved from Galion to Marion.

Dinner Stories.

Chatting with the assistant of Fortunio, the lion tamer, who has been appearing at the Scala in Berlin, we asked if he had ever been attacked by his lions.

"Well, I should say so! In the three years I have been handling them I have had nineteen narrow escapes. Once an old lion bit me when my back was turned and for six weeks I didn't know what part of my anatomy to sit down on; on another occasion a blow from a paw gave me concussion of the brain, and the last time I was half eaten up when they pulled me from the jaws of the beasts"

"But why in heaven's name do you keep at it, then?"

"Well, one wants to live."

Vagrant Verse.

MANY THINGS.

Many things thou hast given me, dear heart;
But one thing thou hast taken: that high dream
Of heaven as of a country that should seem
Beyond all glory that divinest art
Has pictured—with this I have had to part
Since knowing thee. How long, love, will the gleam
Of each day's sunlight on my pathway stream,
Richer than what seemed richest at the start?

Make my days happy, love; yet I entreat
Make not each happier than the last for me;
Lest heaven itself should dawn to me, complete
In joy, not the surprise I dreamed 'twould be,
But simple as the natural and sweet
Continuance of days spent here with thee.

Across to London.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

London, May 25 — Flying from Paris to London is as unexciting and casual as motoring to Oyster Bay. Save for striking a few air pockets with a sickening dip, the trip is as smooth and uneventful as a three-hour motor journey.

The only sinister note is in soaring over the channel when the mechanician places a life preserver beside your seat. Passengers read newspapers and books or play solitaire. The countryside from the clouds resembles a huge patched quilt. But to avoid air sickness, you are advised not to look out.

I started early in the morning and motored from Croyden in time to lunch at Simpson's. London has undergone vast changes. Regent street, the Fifth avenue shopping center, has been widened and ramparted with new buildings. There are other evidences of progress.

The unemployment that has, however, existed since the war is noticeable along the curb of the Strand where men you feel are fitted for something better are hawking matches, mechanical toys, lead pencils and guide books. Their shabby gentility is pronounced.

Many young men walk about encased in those portable news posters—a job once only alloted to the broken-down old sandwich men types of our Bryant park corners. Women are frequently seen driving taxis. The new tax budget has been a hard blow, yet somehow London seems cheerful.

A group of us had tea at the Cavendish presided over by Rosa Lewis, England's most famous cook who recently paid America a visit. Her hotel once the rendezvous of Lord Ribblesdale and other famous men is quite a meeting place for Americans. Mrs. Lewis is an amusing hostess, sometimes a little shocking in her observations, but a favorite among her patrons.

At dusk a fog the thickness of heavy soup descended. A kindly bobby led me into an A. B. C. restaurant until he could commandeer a cab. He never came back although he accepted my half crown. I remained there an hour, the only customer. Old Abion is still perfidious.

The Burlington arcade is a paradise for men who like doggy haberdashery gee-gaws. Having stocked up in Paris I enjoyed reading the signs such as: "Lounge Suitings for Pa Wear," "Cricket Togs and Shooting Mackintoshes," "Morning Cravats," "Monogrammed Weskits," "Evening Shirtings" and, of all things, "Tea Trousers."

One of my favorite haunts in London is a row of pubs in Houndsditch where cabbies collect at night. They are ancient jehus with generous drooping mustaches, noses shot with tiny red veins and weather-beaten complexions. Bonneted Cockney women cajole the Ar and Alfs into buying them ale and bitters amid volleys of good-natured badinage. There is a sprinkling of children who come out of the mews to carry pitchers of beer to their parents. Street musicians play their doleful melodies. It is perhaps London squalor at its worst, but the impression is one of lightheartedness.

Limehouse has been given an unwarranted glamour through the writings of Thomas Burke. Its nocturnal dangers are about the same as that of Chinatown in New York which means it is as safe as Times square at noon. I walked through several of the causeways after midnight in the dripping darkness and aside from a few solitary drooping figures in doorways it was as lifeless as Trinity churchyard.

The night clubs are no different from those in Gotham, patronized chiefly by tourists and offering the same treachery and bored London, for the most part, is abed by 11 o'clock. It is an interesting city, as interesting as any in the world, but I am happy to return to Paris in the morning. London is not London without "Spike" Hunt.

Among other things I saw on the flying were Buckingham castle, Birdcage walk, Old Bailey, the Thames, the Tower of London, London bridge, Parliament and Big Ben, Hyde park, the changing of guards at Whitehall, Trafalgar square and the crowds feeding pigeons and several other sights the yokel always sees.—Copyright, 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

ROBERT BEECHER HOWELL.

Robert B. Howell was born at Adrian, Michigan, January 21, 1864. He was graduated from the United States Naval academy in and served as a lieutenant in the United States navy during the Spanish-American war in 1898. Howell has served in the state senate in Nebraska, and in 1914 was a Republican primary nominee for the governorship of the state. He has been a member of the United States senate since 1923, his term expiring in 1929. Senator Howell sees tariff changes as a method of helping the farmer. Along this line, he said recently in an interview:

"Without diverting our attention from the further promotion of the principles of the agricultural bill recently vetoed, I feel that we also should organize for tariff legislation. Not that full and satisfactory agriculture relief can be accomplished through mere tariff reductions, but there is no question that such legislation would aid and, therefore, in view of the situation should be advocated as supplemental to our program.

"Any attempted legislation, even if successful, to secure agricultural equality through radical reductions of the various tariff schedules, would defeat itself, as it must be evident that one of the results would be an economic disturbance, with this probable consequence; the public, never patient, would refuse to see the experiment through—would react and hence we might find ourselves ultimately, with the tariff idea reintrenched more securely than ever.

"There is, however, a practicable way of curtailing the tariff wall, that is: prevail upon congress to adopt a policy of gradual reductions or eliminations extending over a period of years

"Whatever course we pursue in connection with tariff legislation, we should avoid scattering—we must concentrate. We can not hope to secure a general tariff revision such as would materially aid the farmer. However, I believe it is wholly possible to put pig iron and the primary products of the steel mills on the free list to the great advantage of the country, and, relatively speaking, without any injustice or needless hardship to any one. This would indeed be an achievement—and moreover, prudent progress."

10,000 MORE REFUGEES MAKE RUSH FOR CAMPS

Pointe Coupee and West Baton Rouge Areas Are Inundated by Breaks

Little Rock, Ark., May 25—Fresh disaster again impinged upon the work of rehabilitation for Secretary of Commerce Hoover today as reports of the new influx of flood refugees from Pointe Coupee and West Baton Rouge Parish in Louisiana cut short a tri-state reconstruction tour of the cabinet member's traveling flood relief headquarters.

Reports from Louisiana relief headquarters at Baton Rouge today said 10,000 refugees would be received at the state capital concentration camps within the next few days from the Pointe Coupee and West Baton Rouge area inundated from the McCrea crevasse which yesterday broke away from the defenders of Louisiana's last dry spot after a desperate sandbag battle of four days.

Arriving here early today, Secretary Hoover held a hurried conference with Gove. John E. Martineau and H. C. Couch, state reconstruction director, and then left by special train for Baton Rouge. He will stop for six hours at Memphis tonight enroute.

While new territory in half a dozen Sugar Bowl parishes of central Louisiana went under the flood waters of the Atchafalya basin today, parts of Arkansas and Mississippi emerged far enough to give the reconstruction machinery a foothold in the northern edge of the lower Mississippi Valley.

Bender Says 2,000 Names Added to Referendum Petition Daily

Cleveland, May 25—Approximately 2,000 signatures per day are being obtained to State Sen. George H. Bender's petition for a referendum on the Marshall justice-of-the-peace bill, the senator announced today.

The bill provides for payment of fees to justices, and Senator Bender seeks the referendum with the belief that popular opinion is overwhelmingly against the fee system.

The petition is being circulated in all parts of the state by volunteer workers and, although only 83,000 signatures are necessary, to call a referendum, Senator Bender said he expected to obtain 130,000.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT HARDING HIGH STARTS ON PAGE 1

tauqua Pavilion. At that time all seniors will assemble in caps and gowns and, following the address, to be given by Rev. M. S. Rice, pastor of the Metropolitan M. E. Church of Detroit, will be presented their diplomas by F. C. Gegenheimer, president of the board of education. They will also be heard in their class and school songs. Rev. . W. Schillinger, pastor of Emanuel Lutheran Church, will pronounce invocation.

School Program

The school program this week consists of senior examinations Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and the most anticipated social event of the year—the junior-senior banquet, a dinner-dance given by the juniors in congratulation to the seniors. This year the banquet will be held at 6 o'clock Friday night at the Star Auditorium. More than 400 are expected including prospective graduates, members of the junior class and the faculty. Edward Houghton, president of the junior class, will preside as toastmaster.

Friday morning, seniors will doff their graduation dignity and gather at Harding High School to entertain their schoolfellows with the annual "stunt day" program. They will not, as has been done in former years parade the city streets nor visit outlying schools.

Commencement Service

At Epworth M. E. Church at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night the graduates will form in a procession and proceed to reserved seats at the center of the church, and Rev. Alfred W. Swan, pastor of Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church, selected by them to give the commencement sermon, will preach on the subject, "The Flaming Torch." Music will be furnished by the Epworth M. E. Church Choir under the direction of W. E. Orcutt, and will include anthems and a quartet number. Dr. B. L. George, pastor of the church, will conduct devotionals and give the invocation and Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence, church organist, will play several numbers at 7:15 o'clock as a prelude. This will be the first appearance of the seniors in their caps and gowns.

The senior class play, "Little Women," which promises to be one of the most successful ever presented by a graduating class at Harding High School will be presented at the Grand Theatre Wednesday afternoon and night. Miss Lucile Foreman, dramatics instructor, is in charge. Included in the cast are Hallie Houck, Marvin Rae, Edna Surface, Ruth Henderson, Veran Mae Dorfe, Viola Peacock, Virginia Wilson, Paul Dowler, Joe Rinnert, Kyle Forry, Edwin Knight and Esther Brown.

Class Day Program

Class Day exercises, to be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Chautauqua Pavilion, Garfield Park, is perhaps the most enjoyable activity of the graduation program and second in importance to commencement itself. The seniors assemble in cap and gown while divers talented ones of their number present the annual class [illegible] of the reading of the class [illegible], will, poem, prophecy, and song. A feature of the entertainment is the announcement to be made by S. H. Marshall, principal of the high school, of the list of "honor students," students who have attained grades of 90 or above in all subjects throughout their high school career. The [illegible] medal is awarded the most brilliant student of American History by the Daughters of American Revolution. The musical numbers by students of the school are always a diverting part of the program. At that time Joe Rinnert, senior class president, and Edward Houghton, junior, will give the class addresses. Miss Edith Brown, instructor, is assisting the students with preparations for class day this year.

Junior-senior banquet, stunt day, class play, class day, and then graduation—one round of good times before the seniors solemnly in cap and gown, significant of their attainment of knowledge, file down the steps from the Chautauqua platform, diploma in hand, and enter the ranks of alumni.

LOWMAN TO BE CONSERVATIVE, HE PROMISES

Sensational Phases of Dry Law Forces To Be Eliminated

Syracuse, N. Y., May 25—"Am not going to be sensational in my methods," Seymour Lowman, incoming czar of prohibition enforcement declared in an interview here. Lowman, who formerly was lieutenant governor of New York, has been named as successor to Brig. Gen. Lincolan C. Andrews, resigned.

Lowman indorsed to a large extent the program carried out by Andrews but intimated that some phases of dry law enforcement of a more or less spectacular nature are due for elimination. He said his policy would be conservative and that no ill advised moves would be made if it were possible to avoid them.

It was recalled that Lowman was one of the leaders of the local fight that made Elmira, N. Y., bone dry nearly a year ahead of national prohibition. He is a consistent but not a radical prohibitionist although he never was affiliated with the prohibition party.

To Be Conservative

He said today that his appointment came as a surprise. He will not go to Washington for some time. He said he is unfamiliar with many of the duties of the office and for that reason wishes to issue no statement of policy at this time except that he expects to handle conservatively and effectively the problems of prohibition as they come up.

"It is difficult problem to make the country bone dry," he said. "I would be foolish to put a time limit on how long it would take to accomplish such a program or to attempt to hazard a guess at how many men would be needed for such a task, or even the method of campaigning.

In a large measure I will follow the policies set down by General Andrews. I have always been and still am a bone dry. I stand for 100 per cent enforcement of the law that is on the statute books and written into the constitution."

MARRIAGE PACT

Duncan Sisters Say Both Must Wed Or Neither Will

Hollywood, Calif., May 25 — If Rosetta Duncan of musical comedy fame is to be married, her equally famous sister, Vivian, will be married at the same time or the rice shower will never take place for either.

Following the announcement that Rosetta, the elder sister, was engaged to marry William Beri, studio technician on the Mack Sennett lot, a pact between the sisters was revealed.

Rosetta admitted that her marriage probably would take place some time this year, but emphatically stated that she would not marry unless a double ceremony took place.

Vivian's name is linked with that of Nils Aster, young Scandinavian actor who recently came to the film colony.

Unkept Hands
Spoil Entire Effect

Every woman should have soft, white, youthful hands to complete the picture of daintiness expected of her.

While eating, dancing, playing cards, in fact, whatever you do, your hands are noticed as much as your complexion. You can't neglect them without spoiling the impression you make by being well groomed in every other detail.

The easiest way to keep the hands soft, white and firm is to massage them with the dainty lotion you man make by simply squeezing the juice of two lemons into a bottle of Orchard White, which you can get from your nearest dealer. It clears and refines the skin, making toil-worn and stained hands look like a queen's.—Adv.

WEAKNESS FOR COOKIES PROVES MAN'S UNDOING

A weakness for bakers cookies and doughnuts landed Arthur Handcock, 45, a guest at the Hotel Nordica, in the city prison early this morning on a charge of petit larceny. According to the police, housewives of west Marion for the last week have been missing cookies and doughnuts from sacks left on their porches by the drivers of bakery wagons. A watch was placed and at 5:30 this morning Handcock was arrested charged with being the purloiner of the baked goods.

Was it my fancy, or did he hesitate perceptibly before he uttered the last two words?

"The red-bearded man is especially harmless," he went on, "just a big moron."

"I don't agree with you," I said tartly. "He seems to me more of a ruffian than the other. And he understands and speaks English, I'm sure, while pretending he doesn't know anything about it."

Again that spasm of silent mirth was perceptible in Dicky's face.

"He explained that to me," he said, "when I taxed him with it. We had quite a conversation in French. He speaks English, but an atrocious accent, and is sensitive about it, so pretends ignorance."

I stared at Dicky in irritated astonishment. The red-bearded man was the last person I should suspect of reticence or sensitiveness. If he really were a foreigner, I should have pronounced him the type who would have flaunted his knowledge of English, no matter how meager, instead of hiding his achievement.

'I'm relieved that you pronounce them not dangerous—to us," I repeated and accentuated his hesitation. "Does that mean that I need take no precautions concerning Junior?"

"No more than the excellent ones with which you always surround him," he returned, his voice taking on a formality which told me that he was remembering again the peculiar conditions under which we were living. "That dog has been trained never to touch a child no matter what provocation a youngster gives him. And he is trained to let women alone also, and a man who stands perfectly still is safe. However, they will see that he is safely kenneled when at the shack, and muzzled when they take him with them. And while I do not recommend the men as playmates for our young son, yet they would take care of him and return him safely if they should find him strayed from home."

I rose from my seat abruptly.

"Nevertheless," I said tartly, "I think I shall take very good care that Junior does not stray beyond the yard. Your confidence in these strangers is touching, but—not especially convincing to me. I am afraid I am prejudiced. Was there anything more you wished to tell me?"

"Yes," said my husband, a bit stiffly, "there is. I wish to speak to you about Miss Lincoln."

BY MARSHALL R. HALL • RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS

LARRY GRENFALL, American traveler and student of Eastern magic, receives a telephone call from

BEN MANSOUR, cosmopolite and old friend, saying he must see him at once. Larry goes and Mansour tells him he is about to die and that he wants him to go to Morocco, where he, Mansour, is a sherif or native ruler. He is to find the Temple, endure the Ordeal, crush the Group and put Mansour's son on the throne. A Moor appears and gives Mansour a token, a ruby ring which Larry later wears. The Moor also throws into the room a tiny ivory tiger—the Striped Death. Mansour dies and his body disappears—carried off by the Moors. Larry goes to Morocco, finds

OMAR BEN MEDJAD, who dresses him as a wizard, and as Youssef el-Habbassi he starts on his travels.

Larry demonstrates his gifts as a wizard to a Moor he meets, who proves to be Omar, who has disguised himself to test Larry.

His next adventure is with a Berber outlaw who asks him to read his future. Larry tells him that three days from the present time he will die by the hands of an unknown assassin.

He reaches the market place of Duk el-Abda.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

HE was passing the stall of El-Allal, a seller of fowl, when a hand plucked at his burnouse and he turned to stare into the bold eyes of a wizened Riata. The fellow was looking at him with a leer and, it transpired, he was a messenger.

"Ai taleb: I am charged with delivering unto you a message. Shall I speak?"

"Speak," said Larry, watching the other's face.

"He who sent you here says the Forbidden Road stretches south by way of el-Dholl, the Mountain of Shadows, and the beyond el Dholl lies much that you seek. You are to hasten, but first you will meet one who will take the road with you."

Larry sensed that this must be another of Omar's many agents, for to no one else would he have trusted this message. By the same token, none but Omar could have sent it.

"Where shall I meet the one who will travel with me, Filthy One?" Larry asked.

"Allah alone may say, Father of Wisdom; I have said all that I was told to say," and he would have turned away.

"Wait, son of a jackal," Larry cried, sharply. "How am I to know you speak the truth?"

"Cannot the taleb, who reads all men's minds, read mine. Cannot he tell whether that which I have spoken is false?" The fellow nearly turned him, and Larry realized it. However, he quickly recovered mastery of the situation by falling back on a shop-worn phrase of the Moor:

"Who am I, son of a thousand worms, to read that which Allah alone knows? The future is in the hands of the Compassionate One, and all men's minds are open to him alone."

The other shrank a little.

"You will learn in good time all that you are to know, taleb," he said quickly, then dashed off among the milling crowd.

Larry, walking leisurely, followed in the general direction taken by the messenger but did not see him again. The unforgetable odors of the market place tingled in his nostrils and the fetid breath of the mysterious night seemed to close in about him, suffocatingly; then he wondered if he had heard a voice calling to him or if he were experiencing another illusion of the vague, shadowy night.

"Youssef; this way and hasten!"

This time there was no doubting. Someone was calling to him. He stood at an intersection of dark, narrow alleys at a point where two came together at the very instant of opening into the market place. The voice, he sensed, came from the shadowed recesses of one of these, somewhere back in the blue-black night. Keenly he glanced down the yawning mouth of the alley ways and was rewarded by seeing a gray blotch of shadow standing beneath a high wall.

Casually Larry drew his burnouse about him and turned into the mouth of the alley. He heard a voice again:

"Ai, wizard, the way is devious. Lose me not, else you find yourself with slit eye-lids at the dawn in the market place," and shadowy figure flitted off down the alleyway to the right, Larry clinging at his heels.

The way, indeed, was devious, even as the other had said. Turning and twisting, ascending hummocks of dry-sun-baked earth, and descending depressions that were suggestive of former cellars, he went on and on, then brought up blankly in a blind draw in the alleys from which there was no exit save by way he had entered. His guide had vanished. Larry gazed keenly through the gloom and fastened on a wall that had neither windows or doors. His back against this, his muscular right hand clasped with grim intent the butt of the heavy automatic he carried beneath his burnouse.

It was in his mind that here was a trick of some kind; that he had been lured back here to this remote spot in the outskirts of Duk el-Abda, where the birds of prey and the jackals that moved in the night might pounce upon him. The motive he could not conceive, unless—! By the beard of the Prophet, that might be it! Beni Ahmed.

Beni Ahmed had hinted he was to meet some of the Marabout Group here. If the Group, suspecting the wizard, knew of his arrival, what better could be imagined than that they had inspired a plot to effect his demise? Probably through Beni himself!

Or, perhaps, Beni, still haunted by that prophecy of three days ago, was plotting on his own hook and planning to kill him because of the prophecy; he saw a shadow approaching through the night and gave no further thought to speculating on the cause of his being here. He sensed that action was coming and he stood his ground, prepared to meet whatever might eventuate.

He saw now that the shadow had slipped from a door in the house near by; saw, too, that another shadow was coming from the same house and following the first one. Two of them. Well, so be it. His hand closed decisively over the automatic and he braced himself to receive the shock that was coming. A voice jeered at him from the darkness.

"Ai, wizard; it seems that you are about to become a false prophet, even as I stand here to tell you so."

It was the swaggering, heavy voice of Beni Ahmed.

"What mean you, Beni Ahmed?" Larry strove to keep his voice casual

"I mean it has been decreed that you die tonight, wizard, instead of I, whom you said would die this night from an unknown hand. Now, wizard, it is in my mind that I, too, can read the future and I read that in the space of fifty heart beats from now you will be dead. I think I am a better prophet than you; by Allah's beard, I do."

With the words he threw back the folds of his burnouse and drew a long curved sword, beautifully mounted with silver and gold. Holding it at guard, he advanced, and Larry lifted his automatic from its holster.

"Prepare for death, wizard, imposter that you are. There are those who know why you come seeking here and their minds will be easier when they know you have gone to Moulay Edriss."

Now Beni Ahmed advanced to attack swiftly. Larry sensed that if he did not shoot at once it would be too late; yet he hesitated, knowing the shot in all likelihood would bring an alleyful of the Faithful down on him. Desperately, he cried:

"Beni Ahmed, ten thousand followers of the Sacred Eye will avenge the death of Youssef el-Habbassi. Think well, spawn of a flea-bitten dog, ere you strike."

"Bah, wizard; none shall know. Have at you now," and he drew back his sword for a single, finishing thrust.

Larry lifted his automatic, aiming through the folds of his burnouse, hoping they would muffle the sound of the report when the revolver exploded. From the corner of his eye he saw the second shadow, which had remained in the background, move swiftly; came a flickering as though of fire in the gloom, as though some hidden light were being reflected in a pool of purple blood. A soft, swishing sound ensued, then a thump! With the last Beni Ahmed tossed his arms, his sword clattering at his feet; then he fell in a crumpled heap.

Sensing that the man had been fatally stricken, Larry held his fire. The falling man was dying, else the sounds in his throat lied, and the long keen-edged blade that stood from between his shoulders was an illusion! This even before he struck the ground. Larry gazed down at the crumpled figure, amazement in his face, hidden by the gloom.

"Ah-h-h, wizard," he heard Beni Ahmed wheeze between gasps, through froth-covered lips, "I was wrong; you are truly a great wizard. I die by an unknown hand, after all. It is as Allah willed and the Group will know I failed."

On the words he was silent. Larry bent over him swiftly and [illegible] his breast in which the heart had already [illegible] its last time. Straightening, he looked over toward the second shadow.

"May the blessings of Allah descend on you a thousand-fold stranger. You have saved my life."

The other moved and Larry heard his voice.

"As he said, it was as Allah willed. Had I not heard your name I would not have acted. Come with me. The alley by which you came hither is beset with thieves and those who would kill you for less than the filthy burnouse you wear. I shall show you a better, surer way."

Something in the soft, liquid voice, the bell-like tones conveyed confidence and Larry, first possessing himself of Beni Ahmed's sword and belt, turned and joined the other.

"This way," the bell-like voice sounded and Larry saw the fellow melt literally into the ground beside a low-roofed house.

He looked closely and saw a narrow opening, much after the order of a cellar window, barely level with the surface of the earth without. Unhesitatingly, he dropped and thrust his feet through this opening, allowing his legs to dangle inside. The other's hand touched his leg gently and tugged, whereupon he let go and dropped. His feet struck a paved surface and then, the other's hand now on his arm, he started to follow his guide through gloom that was Stygian.

He heard a door open, heard the soft, liquid voice whisper:

"Bend low; lose not my hand."

Girlish Charm

The exquisite daintiness you admire in so many women depends as much on their hair as their peach-blow complexion and stylish clothes. You can't look good with a pretty dress and dull, stringy hair any more than you would be neatly dressed if you had on a pair of shoes with run-over heels.

You don't have to be denied the admiration you love, because your hair isn't lovely. It is so easy to keep it soft, bright and silky. But don't expect shampooing to do it. Soap and water only washes out the dirt, but can not remove dandruff and that oily film on each strand which keeps hair dull and lifeless. Danderine does it, without drying out the hair too.

The next time you fix your hair, wet your brush with Danderine and draw it through with long, even strokes until each strand is alive and glowing. It takes just a few minutes each day. There's no inconvenience of waiting. You can go right out, and the improvement you will see in the loveliness of your hair will thrill you so you will want to always have Danderine in your room along with your other beauty necessities, so you can make it a daily habit to use it. It will help to keep in your waves.

Danderine is so inexpensive, too. [illegible]

I'm Most Grateful Every Month

Here's glorious news for long-suffering womankind! To every woman who periodically has suffered pain. Menstruation need no longer be painful. And it is Science that is speaking!

Specialists have developed a tiny tablet called midol. It's a simple thing, utterly harmless to a girl of fourteen, but it brings relief in five to seven minutes. And is effective twelve hours or longer!

Midol is NOT a narcotic. It has no effect whatever on heart or nervous system. It acts directly on those organs affected by menstruation. They function normally, as they should, but the pain is banished. Complete relief—yes, perfect comfort—follows midol.

Your druggist has Midol for 50 cents in a slim aluminum box to tuck in your purse.

Do this for me—

take S. S. S. before each meal regularly — and you will soon have your appetite back.

So much depends on your appetite—your strength and vitality—your position—your happiness.

Remember, how it used to be when you could hardly wait for mealtime? And then, sit down and eat several helpings of everything—enjoy every morsel and get up from the table feeling satisfied with the World, happy with everybody and ready for anything.

But what a difference in living when even the sight and smell of food sickens you! Never hungry—no matter how tempting the food is—nothing tasting right. And then, after nibbling at a few bites, feeling worse than ever.

Oh, life is hardly worth living this way. And yet, all in the World the matter with you is that you are starving for rich, red blood. It is acknowledged everywhere that S.S.S. helps Nature build these healthy red blood-cells by the millions!

All you need to do to get back that wonderful appetite is to build rich, red-blood cells with S.S.S. It's simple. Just try it, like thousands are doing every day. See for yourself what S.S.S. will do.

S.S.S. means blood with a punch—brimful of new life and energy. Get your S.S.S. at any good druggist. The larger size is more economical.—Adv.

A GIRL who earns her living—whether in store, office, factory or home—realizes the necessity of regular attendance at her place of employment. For this reason she works on day after day. When she becomes tired out and run-down, she feels that she must keep at her work without taking time to rest.

Thousands of girls have found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored them to a normal physical condition, and has made them fit for work. These two women testify to that fact:

SELECT RED BRICK FOR STREET IMPROVEMENT

Interested Citizens and Taxpayers Meet with Bucyrus Officials

Bucyrus, May 25—Red brick was selected as to the type of pavement to be used on Prospect st. As a result of a meeting of interested citizens and property holders held at the council chamber last night.

About 25 taxpayers met with city officials including Mayor Schorr, Service Director Clarence Kober, and City Engineer F. L. Niederheiser and discussed the merits of the two proposed types of pavement, brick or concrete. The advantage of each were explained by officials and attention was called to the fact that the Hadfield Penfield Co. will in all probability use the street extensively for hauling heavy castings.

While discussion centered around the need for pavement which would withstand heavy traffic citizens objected to use of the street by tractors with cleats on the wheels.

The question as to the type of pavement to be used on Prospect st. has been under discussion for some time and has aroused considerable interest.

PROF. OSCAR ERF SPEAKS AT KENTON C. OF C. MEET

Disorganized Conditions Work Hardships on Farmers, University Attache Declares

Kenton, May 25—Declaring that [illegible] organized conditions of farming communities are working a tremendous hardship upon the tillers of the soil, Professor Oscar Erf, head of the dairying department, Ohio State University, said in addressing a dinner meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and farmers, last night, that coordination of every agricultural unit was essential.

Gradual industrialization of agriculture is the only means of cutting production costs and of enabling the farmer to secure a fair profit," said Mr. Erf. "This means cooperation of the right sort and doing the right [illegible]. Any cooperative organization that tries to do business without aiding the producer is fundamentally and economically wrong for ruinous competition sets in. It is necessary to produce and to sell correctly."

Touching upon the dairying industry, Prof. Erf told of the efforts being made to standardize milk for health. "Upon the character of the milk sold for consumption depends to a great extent the health of mankind. There has been coordination in the dairy business and it has submitted to the many regulations imposed but as a result it has prospered."

Complete Review of Year Given In Galion Annual

Galion, May 25—A complete review of a school year of interesting activities and worthwhile achievements is given in the yearbook, "The Spy," which was distributed to enthusiastic students, yesterday. The book for 1927 is handsomely bound in blue and gold and has both art and literary work of exceptional merit. Characterizing the name, an Indian theme has been carried out in novel style and the book throughout is a realistic sketch of student life. Individual photographs are given of members of the faculty, three senior high classes with organizations represented with cleverly arranged group pictures.

Dedicated to Pfeiffer

The volume is dedicated to a former alumnus and coach, Walter Pfeifer, whose death during the past year ended a brilliant athletic career that had its beginning in the local school. Much has already been done in memory of this sport leader and friend of the students and among the outstanding tributes is that of the graduating class who publish the popular annual.

The literary awards are to Theodore Schaefer for his essay, "How To Improve the School Spirit of Galion High," and to Mae Belle Fink for the poem, "The Universal Plan."

The publication of the Spy adds another chapter to the interesting history of school annuals in Galion. The first yearbook was issued by the class of 1890 and was a small paper affair which was devoted principally to individual photos and copies of lengthy class orations. At that time the senior class had 23 members with only 6 school instructors. I. C. Guinther was the superintendent and D. C. Rybolt, present mayor of Akron, was principal.

"Naughty Footprints"

In 1900 the name "The Two Naughty Footprints," was used for the book but the significance of the title is not known. W. D. Moore, now of Birmingham, Ala., was the second editor.

"The Annual" was the name of the publication of 1902, '03 and '04. Members of the class of 1906 called their book, "The Reliquary," with Harry Tamblyn as editor.

The present name, "The Spy," was chosen in 1908 when a volume of unusual art features was presented. Maurice O. Block, now director of the art institute at Omaha, Neb., designed the cover and contributed division pages of decided distinction.

From that time to the present each class has worked with ardor to surpass the work of preceding groups and now the 21st issue is winning the favor of Galionites.

Merritt McElroy is editor and James Boyer, business manager with an assisting staff composed of Geraldine Helby, Ray Newhouse, Kent Hathaway, Marie Henness, William Thayer, Kenneth Yeager, Ruth McMahon, Julius Wisner, Harold Muth, William Kookel, Kenneth Rench, Loretta Laban, Agnes Shaw, and Mozelle Schieck.

APPEALS COURT FINDS ERROR IN OVERRULING

Motion for New Trial in Damage Suit Given Consideration

Upper Sandusky, May 25—The district court of appeals has found error in the local courts overruling the motion for a new trial in the case of the board of commissioners of Wyandot County, plaintiffs in error, against Lester C. Bedelschies, an infant by his next friend, Ida May Bedelschies, defendants in error, which was heard in the local common pleas court Dec. 20 and 21.

The suit was filed by Bedelschies for damages from the county commissioners in the sum of $2500 for injuries received on August 22, 1925, when it is claimed a loose plank in the Trautwein Bridge near this city caused him to be thrown from the bicycle he was riding and seriously injure his knee.

The case was tried here before a Crawford County jury who awarded Bedelschies $1,800 damages.

ABDUCTION ATTEMPT IS BELIEVED FOILED

Two Kenton Girls Escape "Dope" Mist Thrown from Car

Kenton, May 25—What is believed to have been an attempt by three strange men in an automobile to dope and possibly abduct two young Kenton girls was reported today by Mrs. George Thompson, Brunnast.

The alleged "doping" occurred late in the afternoon while the two girls were roller-skating on S. Main st. According to the story told the automobile bearing three men suddenly appeared alongside the skaters and as it passed they were enveloped in a mist. One of the girls remarked the presence of a strange odor like ether. However they paid no more than passing attention to the incident.

It was not until the "mystery" car reappeared a second time and the operation was repeated that they became alarmed and started for the Thompson home a block away. Enroute Miss McIntire became almost helpless from the effects of the "dope" and had to be assisted to the house by the companion.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER IS INVOLVED IN SUIT

Released from Obligation To Meet Note in Trial at Bucyrus

Bucyrus, May 25—A. J. Huber, county commissioner, is involved in suit on a cognovit note heard in common pleas court here last week and Huber as one of the defendants was released from any obligation to pay on the judgment secured by Mrs. Lydia Marcus Trautman against A. J. Huber and W. A. Guinther for $1,086 and interest at seven per cent for one year in June, Friday by the jury.

Attorney E. J. Myers, representing the plaintiff in the original suit filed a motion for a new trial.

The facts brought out in the trial were that Mrs. Trautman secured a judgment against Huber and Guinther on the note. Later, Huber filed a reply claiming that he knew nothing of the note having his name and if it did it was secured through fraud. Huber won his case in trial Friday. Calvin Knisley and Charles Schaber represented the defendants. Chance Diewald and E. J. Myers represented the plaintiff.

EXPECTING TO COMPLETE ALL WORK THIS YEAR

Estimated Total Cost of Scheduled Improvements Is $200,000

Bucyrus, May 25—Slightly over 30 miles of road construction work with an estimated total cost of $200,000 will be carried out in Crawford County this year according to plans of County surveyor K. B. A. Foster.

Road construction work scheduled for the year as above includes 14 miles of macadam construction on county roads, one and three-fourths miles brick or concrete construction and 11 and one-half miles of construction on state highways. The plans calls for brick or concrete pavement on only one road this year and it is pointed out that nearly all the state highways in the county are improved with brick, concrete or bituminous macadam.

Additional pavement scheduled for this year will be laid for one and three-quarters miles on Tiffin rd., I. C. 100, beginning at the end of the present brick pavement. Three and one-half miles of the same road will be resurfaced. The other eight miles of construction is on state road No. 559.

Mile In Each Township

The 14 miles of new county roads are scattered over the county in 12 of the 16 townships in the county. The four where no roads are scheduled for construction are: Liberty, Texas, Todd, and Sandusky. Each township will have one mile of road construction with the exception of Chatfield and Holmes Townships each of which will have two miles. Those townships scheduled for one mile of new road are Auburn, Bucyrus, Cranberry, Dallas, Jackson, Jefferson, Lykens, Vernon, Polk and Whetstone. The county roads are estimated to cost $80,000 by Surveyor Foster or about $5,000 per mile. The new concrete or brick pavement will cost in the neighborhood of $75,000 and the 11½ miles of stage construction will probably cost $35,000.

Work on the roads has not started yet and the contracts have not been awarded but the [illegible] will be soon and officials expect the work to be completed this year.

Only One Sunday School League Contest is Played

SPORT SAUCE

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB

"THE bigger they come, the harder they fall." That's the motto of the Harding High Senior recreational ball team. And they proved it last night when they mauled the Faculty, 13 to 5, in spite of the efforts of three opposing pitchers to stop the massacre.

But the Seniors were not the only persons to get a thrill out of the contest. The sidelines were packed with students crying for the downfall of their masters in the classroom. The higher the score went, the more pleased were the spectators. They didn't want a close game for excitement, as is usually the case. Their excitement climbed with the Seniors' score.

JUST what's going to happen to the recreational ball league schedules in Marion if the weatherman doesn't turn off the hose soon is almost too horrible to discuss.

Things were bad enough before last night but the downpour at 7 o'clock, when all games were moving along smoothly, was about the last straw. One group became disgusted and finished the fifth inning in the rain rather than have another postponed affair hanging fire.

When the schedule was set back a week last year because of rainy weather at the first of the season, fans and players though it was a crime. But, now, a number of players are wondering if the schedules will be cleared up before next Christmas.

There's nothing to be done about the situation but one fan has already suggested that the commission begin to make arrangements to ask for the use of the Steam Shovel gymnasium in which to play the Little World Series. This pessimistic enthusiast says that it will be getting dark before 6 o'clock when the season closes.

AND speaking of tongue twisters this one appeared in the headlines of a morning newspaper.

"Puerile Pitching Pushes Pittsburgh Pirates Pennantward."

The writer is referring to the generous and hospitable manner in which the Cincinnati Reds' pitching staff is welcoming the visitors in the Queen City this week. The Pirates have been getting a friendly welcome in most of the cities they visit this year but they have become greatly attached to the Reds and will really hate to leave Ohio.

The Pittsburgh boys are only one full game ahead of the rest of the National League teams and would like to rise a little higher before bidding goodbye to their Cincinnati entertainers. Among the leading glad-handers of the dungeon-dwellers yesterday were Donohue, Lucas and Jakie May.

PLANS were completed at noon today for the annual Marion-Bucyrus relay race. It will take place a week from Saturday, June 4. Names of Marion participants will be made known Thursday.

Auto Speed Kings Ready for Blue Ribbon Event; Milton Rebuilt Car in Day to Win His First Race

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

THE day before the 1921 Memorial Day race at Indianapolis Tommy Milton whirred around the track supremely confident that the car he drove would carry him to victory the following day. A minute later the car had literally flown to pieces. At least the motor had.

NORMAN E. BROWN

Milton won the race. The last nut was tightened on a reassembled motor as they shoved the car to the starting line.

Bennett Hill dove into a retaining wall with one of his cars, was hurled 100 feet beyond the wall, landed underneath the machine and spent months in a hospital recovering but was in the next Indianapolis race.

These little sidelights typify the courage and fortitude of the men who are constantly seeking to beat father time behind the wheel of a racing car.

The history of the Indianapolis classic to be renewed for the fifteenth time May 30, is replete with such instances.

The annual classic has given the racing world such stars as Milton, Hill, De Palma, Dario Resta, Jimmy Murphy, Joe Boyer, Peter De Paolo, Gaston Chevrolet, Jules Goux, Frank Lockhart, and others.

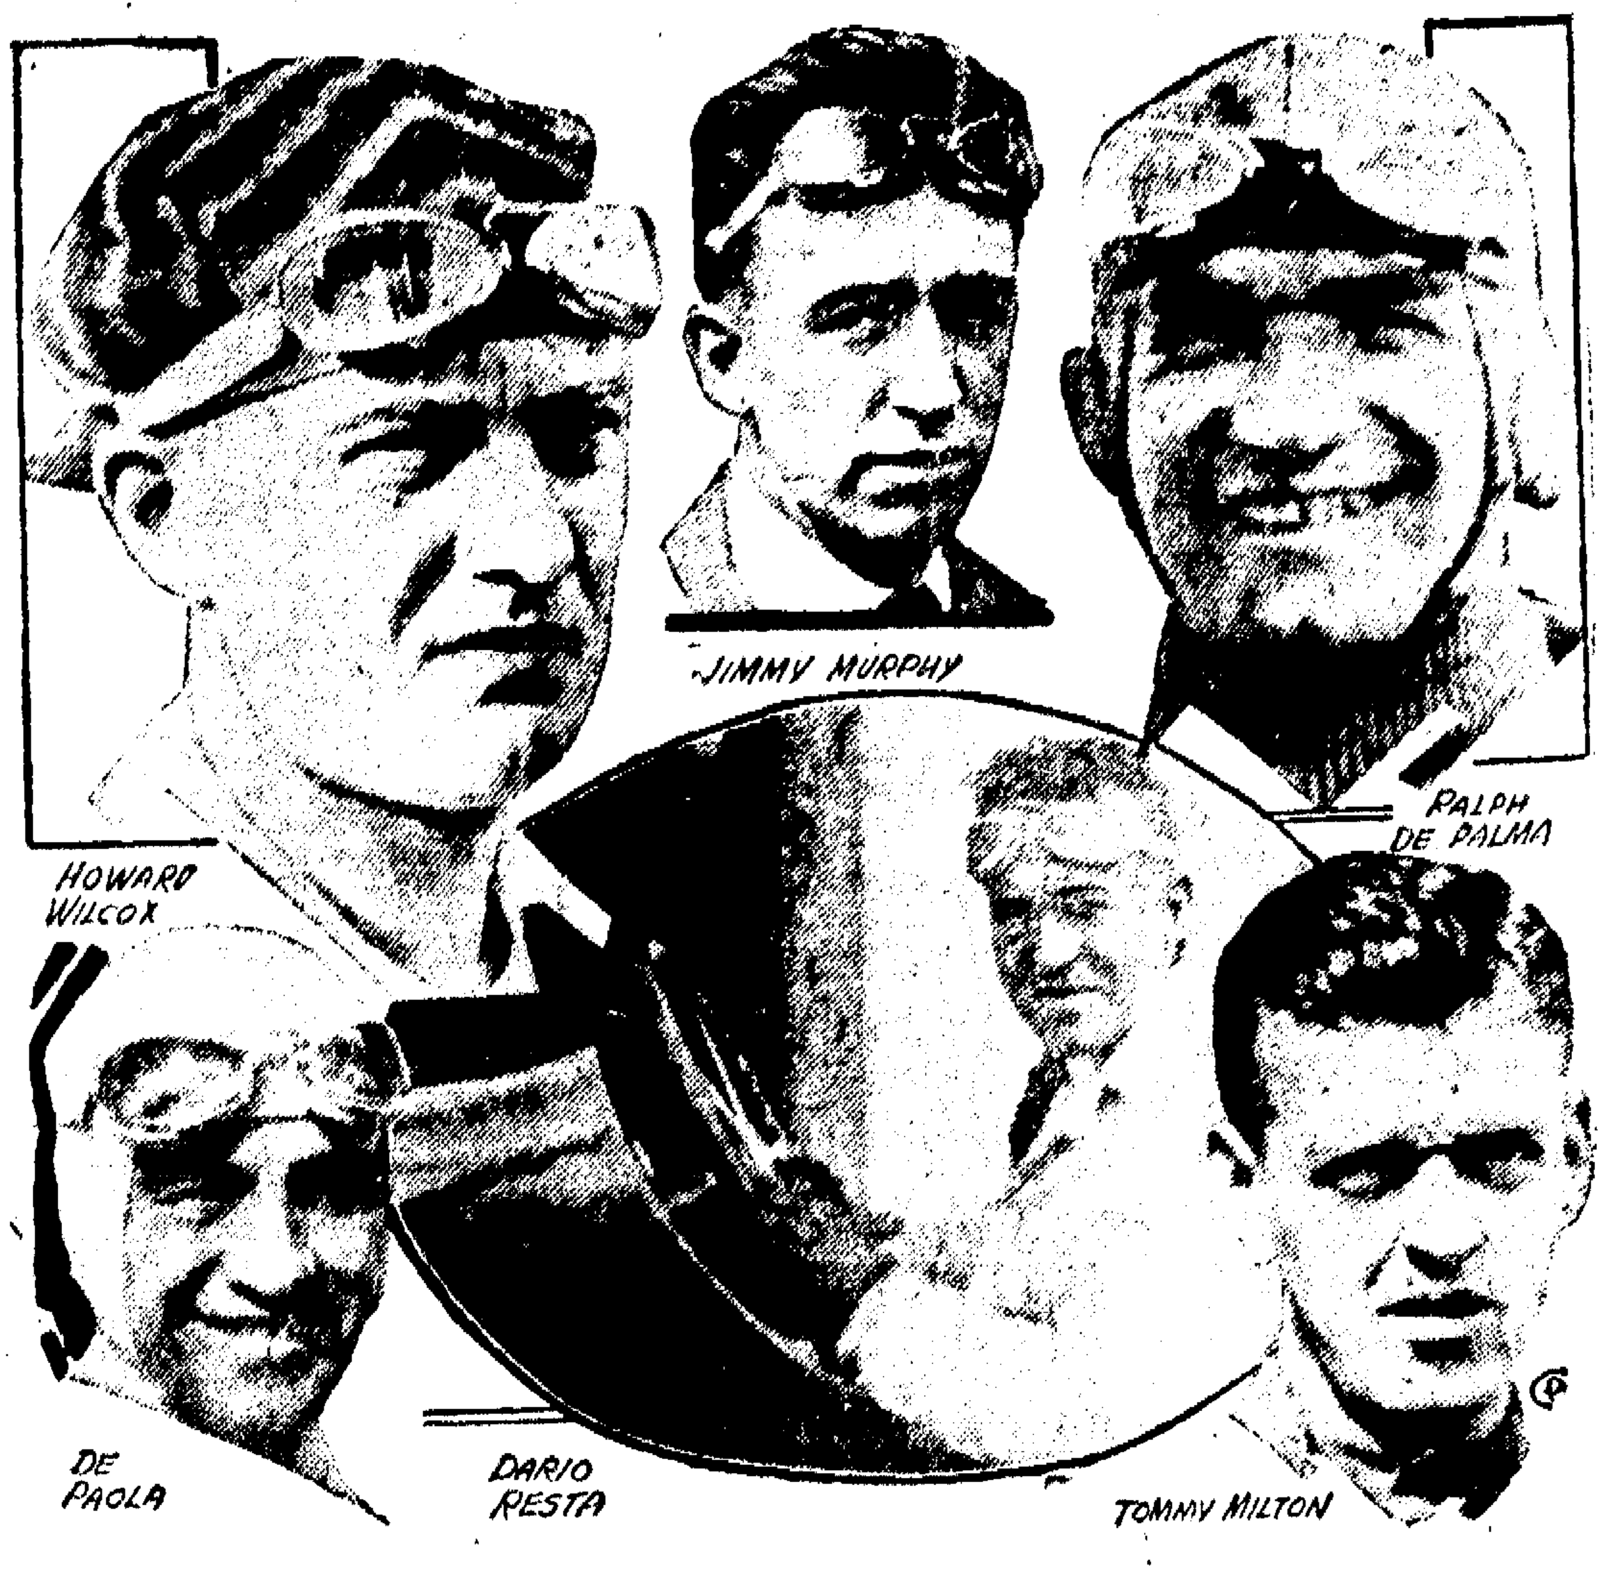
The race was initiated in 1911. The first one drew the cream of auto drivers from American and European tracks. Foreign manufacturers saw in the event an opportunity to prove the supremacy of their cars. For the first two years, however, American built and driven cars triumphed. Harroun, driving a Marmon, won the opening race and Dawson, in a National, won the next event.

Then came Jules Goux from France with a Peugeot to begin what proved to be a reign of seven years—counting the two-year lapse during the war. Thomas in a French Delage; De Palma, with a Mercedes from Germany, and Dario Resta with another Peugeot, won in successive races. The event was called off during the two war years and then Wilcox, in a Peugeot, continued the foreign successes.

It remained for Gaston Chevrolet, a Frenchman, to end the reign, by driving an American built Monroe to victory in 1920.

Since then American cars have ruled.

Dario Resta, one of the most picturesque drivers to seek fame in the Hoosier event, met a tragic death in January of 1925, while attempting to establish a world's record in England. His racer plunged through an iron fence at top speed.



Some of the daredevils who have won fame in the annual Indianapolis races.

Mention of accidents on the track recalls the hectic debut of De Paolo, the man who ran wild around the racing tracks of the country in 1925. This intrepid nephew of De Palma's had crashed so many times in his first year as a pilot that car builders hesitated to entrust him with their cars. "Watch out for that wild-eyed De Paolo," was the cry on the tracks. But Peter finally found a car that would do his bidding and started to win.

When the entries were filed for the 1927 race, Tommy Milton was the only driver to boast of two victories in the Indianapolis race—having triumphed in 1921 and 1923.

Milton will not be in this year's event. He retired as a racing driver two years ago. He has two cars entered, however, and Cliff Durant, millionaire daredevil, will drive the pick of these two.

LUTHERAN TEAM DEFEATS FIRST REFORMED NINE

Finish Game in Downpour; Other Tilts Washed Away by Rain

ONLY two teams braved the rain until the fifth inning last night in the Sunday School League recreational ball games and as a result the Lutherans trounced the First Reformed outfit, 6 to 5, at the Silk Mills diamond. All other contests were called before the fifth frame and will be played later in the season.

With the rain sweeping across the grounds in the last of the fourth, the Lutherans, trailing on the tail-end of a 5 to 1 tally, staged a hit and run rally and scored five counters. Only three men faced Kochensberger, the Lutheran moundsman, in the first of the fifth and the game was called as the last man to bat was ruled out. The final score was 6 to 5.

Williams and Klingle were the losing batteries. The First Reforms scored two runs in the first inning and annexed three more in the fourth. The Lutherans counted one in the first and made five in the fourth to win the game.

With weather permitting the postponed games scheduled for tonight in the Sunday School Leagues will be played as planned. The Association postponed games will be held Thursday night in addition to the Industrial League contests. Diamonds on which the games will be played will be announced by managers of the leagues. The regular Industrial League schedule will be followed.

No plans have yet been made for the playing of the games postponed last night. They will probably be booked for nex Wednesday night if rain doesn't stop the contests which are to be played tonight.

Here's the Industrial games Thursday night:

Marion Packing vs. Gardner Tap & Die Co. at Central Junior.

Osgood vs. Erie Shops at Steam Shovel No. 2.

Fairfield vs. Huber at Fairfield.

C., D. & M. vs. Steam Shovel Shops at Lincoln Park.

BUTLER STORE TEAM TO PLAY SILK MILLS

The Butler Store recreational ball team will meet the Silk Mill nine on the Silk Mills diamond at 6 o'clock, Thursday night. All Butler men are requested to report to receive their new suits.

Vincent Richards is Only New Davis Cup Contender

NEW YORK, May 25—With the single exception of Vincent Richards, who went after the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow and got some of it, the United States Davis Cup team for 1927 will be chosen from essentially the same squad that was assembled for the tryouts last year. This was made known today when the United States Lawn Tennis Association announced the list of men who have been nominated to try for a place among the cup defenders.

William T. Tilden and William Johnston, backbone of the American team through seven years of the cup's successful defense, are foremost among the nominees. Even at this early date, they are almost certain to be America's representative in the singles and, except for Johnston's frailty, probably would form the doubles team as well.

But with Johnston likely to be conserved strictly for singles play, another man must be chosen to play doubles with Tilden and the most logical choice is R. Norris Williams, team captain for several years. However, a number of young players who were honored with official trials last year may develop to the point where they will be seriously considered for the place.

Among the 1926 squad who have been invited again to take part in the trials are Edward G. Chandler, Berkeley, Cal.; George M. Lott, Chicago; Louis White, Austin, Tex.; A. H. Chapin, Jr., Springfield, Mass., and Cranston Holman, Stanford University.

Other nominees are Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle veteran who did not try for the team last year, Dr. George King, New York, and John Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal., the national junior champion. Dick Williams will complete the squad.

Whether he will be teamed with Tilden remains to be seen in view of their split over the doubles defense of the Davis Cup against the Australians several years ago. They have not played together since, which argues against Williams' selection in spite of his experience and ability. Tilden's most recent partner has been Chapin but, with the Davis Cup seriously threatened by the French invasion, the

Four Harding Tracksters Eligible for State Meet

FOUR Harding High athletes are eligible to enter the state track and field meet at Ohio Stadium, Columbus, Saturday. They are Gerald Zimmer, Hugh Shults, Ed Knight and Jones.

Zimmer placed third in the mile at the district track meet at Delaware two weeks ago. Shultt is a quarter-miler, Ed Knight will participate in vaulting and high jumping, and Jones placed third in the half-mile at the district meet.

These four youths may try their luck at the state meet Saturday, entering Class A at Columbus.

In the county are Roush and Johnson of Prospect, and Earl Furniss of Green Camp, who will represent their schools at the state meet. They will enter Class B.

Johnson holds the state high school record for both discus and shot put. Roush is a broad jumper and Furnisa heaves the javelin. Every youth is almost certain to place in an event and Johnson is expected to take first place in both the shot put and discus, probably bettering his present record, established in the district meet at Delaware.

Former Elmore Nine Will Furnish Opposition for Winning Marion Athletics

Local Club Will Have New Catcher, Bersinger of Bellefontaine Being Booked for That Position; Main Will Again Be on the Mound

WITH Perry Ballmer, former St. Louis National League pitcher on the mound, the Toledo Old's Motors baseball club will invade Marion Sunday afternoon to avenge two defeats suffered at the hands of the locals last season.

The Old's crew appeared here on two occasions last season under the name of the Elmores. The team this year is under the same management and has a number of the same players with the exception of the new hurler, who is one of the best in Toledo.

The Toledo team has played only two games this season. They defeated the Kenton Reds, 10 to 0, and trimmed Defiance, 17 to 3. They were rained out at Lima last week. Last season the visitors won 21 out of 30 starts, two of its six defeats coming at the hands of the Marion team.

The lineup is as follows: F. Marsh, cf; Decker, 2nd; Garry, rf; McClan, 3rd; Stearns, 1st; Callahan, lf; W. Marsh, ss; J. Ballmer, c; P. Ballmer, p, and Lake c.

Stearns has been with Davenport, Ia., one season; McClan was with Hamilton, Ont.; Decker has played with Duluth, Minn.; Garry comes from Flint, Mich.; F. Marsh played with Saginaw, and Callahan was with Tampa in the Florida State league.

The Marion outfit will have a new catcher, Bersinger of Bellefontaine. Bersinger carries the reputation of being a hard hitter and should strengthen the local crew in that department of the game. Harn has been released.

Main will again be on the mound for the Marion team and the regular lineup will prevail as usual. Main is showing better form since the first game and received 11 strikeout last week, holding Massillon down in the pinches.

"MILLWICK" WINS "ONE HORSE" RACE

New York, May 25—Although 7,813 racing enthusiasts and handicappers in these United States picked Millwick to win the fourth race at Belmont yesterday, they were not a nickel richer today. Because of unfavorable track conditions every other horse in the race was scratched, and Millwick ran around all by himself.

It was the first one-horse race since Exterminator "won" a similar race at Saratoga several years ago.

This event is one of the most popular affairs in Marion sports. Last year, Bucyrus won the race, making record time. In fact a check up shows that the run was made in an hour and 27 minutes, 30 boys taking part and each traveling one-half mile.

Final arrangements for the race were made by F. O. Rudolph, physical instructor of the Y. M. C. A., who has charge of the Marion end of the meet.

committee may not care to place too much dependence on youthful shoulders.

Chandler, former intercollegiate champion, has developed faster than any of the young school in recent years and his name has been coupled informally with Tilden's as a possible Davis Cup team mate. The others have been nominated in line with the committee's policy of giving the young players experience and its present disposition to take no chances since none can be taken in the face of France's real threat.

KELLY "DOING NICELY" FOLLOWING OPERATION

New York, May 25—George Kelly of the Cincinnati Reds, who was operated on for acute appendicitis here yesterday, was reported doing nicely today. He will not be able to return to the game for at least a month.

Velvet bags are carried with dressy frocks. Most of them have classical tortoiseshell clasps, the very latest, however are a little bit smaller with crystal clasps.

"The ball may not be slower this year but some pitchers are taking a long time getting it past the batters."

Lee Meadows Holds Reds to Three Hits; Tigers Win

NEW YORK, May 25—As the Pittsburgh Pirates continue to ride rough-shod over their rivals in the National League pennant race, their one best bet is Lee Meadows, veteran right hander. The bespectacled gentleman from North Carolina held the Reds to three hits yesterday, winning 11 to 1 and turning in one of the finest performances of his twelve year career in the majors.

Meadows has yet to be beaten this season and has accounted for six of Pittsburgh's 19 victories. He shared honors yesterday with Pie Traynor, who pounded out four hits in one game for the second time within a week. The execution would have been worse if the Reds had not engineered a triple play, the first of the season.

Reds on Rocks

The Cincinnati team has gone on the rocks again after a short winning spurt and the depression in the frankfurter colony is terrible. The fans are hammering out the anvil chorus again and some of the good burghers are even clamoring for the scalp of Manager Jack Hendricks.

Detroit knocked George Uhle out of the box and downed Cleveland 6 to 3, taking sixth place away from the Indians. Manush hit a homer.

Brooklyn and Philadelphia staged another slugging match and when the last towel was lifted the Robins were found to be leading 6 to 5. The relief pitching of Father Bill Doak featured.

To wear over crepe georgette dresses or those of printed chiffon, Vionnet, Paris designer, makes very simple but lovely capes lined with the same material in the dresses.

The Boy saw for the first time that beside the fence grew a tall tree and it was so knotted and gnarled that he knew at once it must be very old indeed. One of its little branches bent down and it looked as if the tree were trying to lean upon the fence for support.

Did Cutie think he could hide behind that tree? How silly! The Dog would scent him in a minute and drive him into the open. Yet certainly that was just where Fox was heading. Now he had almost reached it. Well, why didn't he go on? What was he waiting for?

It's a Summer Cottage

or a suburban home you wish to rent, the classification "For Rent" offers a convenient and quick way to do it. Marionites are looking for a summer vacation home away from the heat and noise of the city—near the cool breezes of some lake or stream. Put your "rent sign" where it will do the most good—not on the cottage where a few will see it—but in the "Want Ads" where thousands read it.

Barnes paid high tribute to the part America has played in the expanding trade of Europe, in Europe's clearly increasing stability and in the reconstructed opportunity of its peoples. Since the war, he said, America often raised its voice against fallacies "which could only lead to disaster and ruin."

"At times the voice of American business suggestion has been resented," he declared, "but in the end the truth and logic of American advice made its converts.

"Some day the history of the world will pay to America its tribute, not only for the material help which, in war and since, America did render, but also for the far vision and lofty ideals which laid down the path of reconstruction."

STRENGTH OF STOCKS DISPLAYED ON MARKET

Selling Orders of Bearish Traders Prove of No Avail

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks irregular. Industrial stocks irregular. Domestic bonds steady. Foreign bonds irregular. Call money 4½ per cent. Grain strong. Copper reactionary. Oil weak. Cotton firm. Rubber steady. Sugar firm. Pig iron steady. Foreign exchange steady.

New York, May 25—The industrial speculative [illegible] displayed conspicuous strength [illegible] market today, in the face of heavy [illegible] taking and short selling.

Bearish [illegible] a huge volume of selling [illegible] market in the second hour [illegible] start a reaction in the [illegible] leaders, but the mild [illegible] attended these efforts were [illegible] immediately by sharp [illegible] which in most cases restored all [illegible] losses. As usual, Baldwin [illegible] General Motors were the [illegible] today's forward movement [illegible] specialty stocks of [illegible] Park Personal and Colors [illegible] were ready to flash brilliantly whenever the trend of prices was upward.

Industrial and business news of the day offered great contrasts to that of the last week or so. Million car freight-loading were maintained for the sixth consecutive week. Steel buying in the second half of May to date was disappointing, though production has been slowed up but little. New uses for steel are taking the added tonnage sufficient to offset the losses in the leading channels of consumption, according to Iron Age's weekly summary.

General Electric Co. fulfilled expectations by placing the stock on a 4 per cent dividend basis as well as ordering an extra cash dividend of a dollar a share with a similar dividend at the end of the year. This practically places the stock of the 6 per cent basis, and justifies the current advance in the stock to around $100 a share.

EASTERN ENGINEERS MAY GET COMPROMISE RAISE

Seven and One-Half Per Cent Boost Scheduled Instead of 15 Per Cent

New York, May 25—Thirty thousand locomotive engineers of eastern railroads who are demanding a 15 per cent wage increase may receive, as a compromise, a raise of 7½ per cent.

This was indicated today at Grand Central Terminal where negotiations between a subcommittee of the conference of managers of eastern railroads and a committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers are in progress.

The conferees hope a settlement may be reached without resort to the United States Board of Arbitration or to arbitration proceedings.

Fifteen per cent increase if granted, would add $13,000,000 to the annual payroll of the roads involved, according to J. C. Walber, vice president of the New York Central Railroad.

A compromise of 7 1-2 per cent, or $6,500,00 would give the engineers the same proportional increase as the other brotherhoods—the conductors, firemen and enginemen—received.

After an agreement is reached with the eastern carriers the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is expected to negotiate with roads in the southeastern and western territories, as have the other three brotherhoods.

Negotiations being held here are secret and may last all week.

HAZEN AND LANDES TOSS HATS IN POLITICAL RING

Three candidates are now entered for the primary, the first having been T. J. Mead, Democrat, who has filed for a third term as councilman from the second ward. Mead is the only Democrat now holding city office.
